Rail Fireman Hero In Wreck at Hudson

HUDSON, N.Y. (AP) — Thirty-five persons were injured, but many might have been dead had not a quick-thinking railroad fireman turned off the engines of a New York Central passenger tain after it rammed into a halted work train last night.

Investigators for the Interstate Commerce Commission, the State Public Service Commission and the railroad sought today to determine why the Central's Hendrick Hudson, bound from New York City to Albany, was switched from the main line to the siding where the work train had stopped.

Prevents Explosion

The conductor of the work train was injured critically. Five other persons were hospitalized, including three railroad men and two of the 42 passengers aboard the Hendrick Hudson.

The fireman who probably prevented further casualties was John T. Miles of Troy.

"After the crash, the engines started to smoke," he reported. "When I saw that smoke coming out of the high-tension cabinets, my main objective was to turn off the engines. Those engines carry over 1,000 gallons of fuel apiece and, if they exploded, the whole area would have blown up."

Just Before Stop

Five cars and two diesel locomotives were derailed.

Most of the injured were treated at Columbia Memorial Hospital here.

The accident occurred a few minutes before the scheduled station stop in Hudson.

24 at Hospital

In Hudson, a spokesman at Columbia County Hospital said all but five of 24 persons brought there in a small fleet of ambulances and taxis were released after treatment for cuts and bruises. Another man was taken to Albany Medical Center.

The hospital spokesman said 11 other persons were treated at the scene.

The crash hurled three passenger cars, a diner and baggage car from the track. None of the cars on the 10-car Hendrick Hudson tipped over.

Almost Killed Trying

J. T. Miles, fireman on the passenger train, said a yard hand made a desperate effort to turn the switch and avert the crash. The unidentified man failed.

"He almost got killed trying," Miles told newsmen at the hospital.

"I saw him at the switch. We were less than 50 feet away. I guess we'll never know who he was."

Alderman Slover Resigns Office In Fourth Ward

Mayor John J. Schwenk today reported receiving the resignation of Fourth Ward Alderman Robert P. Slover, of 315 Hasbrouck Avenue, to become effective Sept. 30.

The mayor said he would decide later as to the naming of a successor. The ward's Republican candidate for the November election is Donald Tucker, of 169 Murray Street.

Treasures Experience

Slover, a carpenter, in his letter of resignation said:

"It is with mixed emotions that I tender my resignation to you as alderman from the Fourth Ward to take effect on Sept. 30, 1963.

"After 21 months as the representative of the people of my ward, I can honestly say that this has been an experience I will treasure for the rest of my life. Playing a part in the legislative affairs of my community has been rich in the opportunity to serve my neighbors, and I shall miss it greatly.

"However, increasing responsibilities in my work, a recent illness, and a desire to give more time to my young family have placed increased pressure on the amount of time I am able to devote to the position of alderman.

"Since I am not seeking re-election for these reasons, I have come to the conclusion that it would be more sensible to step down at this point than to fill out the remaining few months of my term.

Wishes Schwenk Well

"I want you to know that it has been an honor to serve with the minority party in the council during your first term as mayor, for I have had an opportunity to help you accomplish many wonderful things for the people of our city in these past months.

"I wish you much luck in your campaign for re-election as mayor, and hope that you will have a majority party in the council to support your vital program for Kingston in the next session."

Lauded by Mayor

Mayor Schwenk, in his reply wrote:

"When a man such as you leaves public service, it is always a great loss to the people. Not only have you been a dedicated representative of the people of the Fourth Ward, but you have shown a mature sense of legislative judgment that has been of great value to all of the people of our city, no matter in which section they live.

"I wish to thank you with deep humility for your support of those legislative programs that I have requested for the growth and development of our com-

IN POLICE CUSTODY—Police drag off a white man from West End High School in Birmingham, Ala., following demonstration which began after two Negroes were admitted to the school. (AP Wirephoto)

Hundreds Of Whites In Class

37 Pupils Quit Later at Ramsey

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Hundreds of white pupils went to class in integrated Birmimgham schools today with no disorders reported.

The same situation existed in desegregated schools at Mobile, Tuskegee and Huntsville.

No Major Crowds

Federalized National Guardsmen at Birmingham were on a standby, ready to go on school property only if asked by city and school officials.

No major crowds congregated on the grounds of West End High, where hundreds of white pupils and some adult demonstrators created disorders Tuesday which brought nine arrests.

The two Negro pupils entered West End a half hour before class time. Police required white boys and girls to enter the building upon arrival or leave the vicinity.

About 200 white pupils massed in a yard near the school. They attempted first to congregate on the football field but police chased them away. Adult pickets who wanted to stage a march near the school were halted by police.

A caravan of cars bearing States Righter demonstrators rolled by the school but police refused to let them stop. The cars bore the usual Confederate flags and anti-Negro signs.

All was peaceful at Ramsay High and Graymont Elementary, the other desegregated city schools. At Ramsay a police captain urged pupils: "Please go into classes — you'll be doing me a favor by doing so."

Push School Boycott

At Mobile there was a mild vocal demonstration when two Negroes went to integrated classes for the second day. The chanting of "we don't want to integrate" stopped after Charles Willcox, school athletic director, chatted with the white pupils.

The National States Rights party continued its campaign of pamphlet distribution urging a school boycott.

A group of 50 boys and girls at Ramsay High gathered outside, saying they were not going to class but only wanted to watch. Police told them to go to school or go home. All but three or four entered the building.

37 Walk Out

Thirty seven pupils who entered before the tardy bell walked out later, calling vainly for others to follow. Police moved them on down the street.

Enrollment at West End and Graymont Tuesday was off sharply but nearly normal at Ramsay.

The Board of Education said 857 enrolled at Ramsay, 575 at West End and 116 at Graymont. Expected enrollment was 900 at Ramsay, 1,498 at West End and 328 at Graymont.

West End was the only trouble spot in integration of schools at Birmingham, Mobile and Tuskegee.

The guardsmen, some of them called up three months ago to enforce integration at the University of Alabama, were not needed as 20 Negroes entered white schools and broke a new deadlock between Gov. George C. Wallace and the federal government.

Wallace to Continue Fight

"I can't fight bayonets with my bare hands," said Wallace. He pledged to continue his segregation fight in the courts.

Wallace called up the National Guard to block the Negroes. Pres-

Fears 'On-Sight' Loss

Russell Opposing Treaty Ratification

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Richard B. Russell expressed fear today that the limited nuclear test-ban treaty might point the way toward world disarmament wihout on-site inspection.

"No one is more in favor of disarmament than I am," said the Georgia Democrat who heads the Senate Armed Services Committee before the Senate began its third day of formal debate on the pact.

"I would be willing to abolish all nuclear weapons.

"But we are giving up the conception of on-site inspection in this treaty and we'll never be able to revive it."

May Be Trap

Thus, Russell added, he decided to oppose ratification of the ban on all but underground blasts because he fears "we may be trapping ourselves into disarming without ironclad guarantees that the Russians are doing likewise."

The United States has insisted on-site inspection is necessary to detect sneak underbround blasts precisely. So far as the testing environments prohibited by the treaty are concerned—the atmosphere, outer space and underwater—the government contends that most tests could be detected without on-site inspection. President Kennedy has assured the military chiefs, meanwhile, that detection systems will be sharpened while the treaty is in effect.

Insists on Security Guard

Senator Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois prepared a formal speech of endorsement of the treaty. It was based on the assurances Kennedy was expected to make, in a letter to him and Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, that American military security will not be permitted to deteriorate under the pact.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., said in a separate interview that he intends to press for a vote on a reservation to the resolution implementing the treaty which would delay effectiveness of the agreement until the Soviets withdraw their military forces from Cuba.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, called the treaty the first step back from a possible nuclear war offering "the specter of eventual extermination" for both the United States and the Soviet Union.

Church, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said that in signing the treaty, the United States, Britian and the Soviet Union all recognized that "it may be better to try to halt the nuclear arms race than to try to win it."

Tuesday night at Miami Beach, Secretary of State Dean Rusk told an American Legion convention that rejection of the pact would add weight to Red China's contention that peaceful coexistence with the West is impossible.

Israel Promises To Crack Down on Mission Rioters

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector, (AP)—Prime Minister Levi Eshkol says his government will prosecute those responsible for violent demonstrations in three cities by Orthodox Jewish youths against Christian missionary work in Israel.

100 Youths Seized

Eshkol condemned the riots in Jerusalem, Haifa, and Jaffa Tuesday in which more than 100 Orthodox youths were arrested.

The youths broke into church schools and slapped children, assaulted a policeman and a teacher, molested a Catholic archbishop and caused some damage, witnesses reported.

The demonstrators were said to be members of the "Hever Hapeilim" ("Circle of Activists"), an association of Orthodox students who favor anti-missionary laws.

Rioters invaded the courtyard of the French-directed convent school of St. Joseph near Jerusalem's commercial district. Roman Catholic sisters bolted all inner doors and called police, who arrested more than 100 demonstrators trying to break into the Finnish mission school. One demonstrator was arrested on charges of attacking a policeman.

Assault Teacher

In Jaffa, about 100 demonstrators broke into the Church of Scotland school. School officials said the youths slapped several children, assaulted a teacher and caused some damage. Police seized placards reading, "end the disgrace of missions" and arrested seven demonstrators.

Archbishop George Hakim, leader of the Greek Catholic community in Israel, witnessed the Jaffa demonstration. He told newsmen

Brooklyn Man Held in $20,000 Attempted Theft Here May 15

Persistent tracing of leads by local detectives since the attempted theft last May 15 of some $20,000 worth of men's clothing from the Herman G. Rafalowsky store, 71 Albany Avenue, brought the arrest in Brooklyn Tuesday of a suspect.

George Tactikos, 40, of 120 St. Mark's Place, Brooklyn, picked up on a bench warrant by Sgt. Thomas Tomshaw and Detectives Charles McCullough, was booked on charges of third degree burglary, first degree grand larceny and unlawful entry. He was due for arraignment in county court at 2 p. m. today.

Two men were said to have escaped as police swarmed on the building after a tipoff that a suspicious truck had been seen in the area shortly after 9 p. m. May 15.

Police Chief Robert F. Murphy, who commended his officers for "excellent detective work," said an investigation is still in progress, and "to the best of our knowledge, others were involved." The detectives, he said, worked day and night, studied hundreds of photographs and many leads.

Abandoned at the store was a 1957 orange Chevrolet panel truck with white and black lettering and bearing Florida license plates. It had been loaded with bundled men's suits.

A rear door had been opened for loading the truck after entrance was gained through a skylight. Police also confiscated a new aluminum extension ladder.

The truck was lettered with the name of the Meadowbrook Lumber Co., Bellmore, Nassau County, N. Y. It was damaged in several places, and an attempt had been made to remove some of the lettering.

A burglary at the Rafalowsky store in October, 1957, resulted in the loss of merchandise valued at between $17,000 and $20,000. Entrance was gained then by the backing of a heavy truck through a rear section of wall.

China Baits for Break

Soviets Riled, But Live in Patience

MOSCOW (AP) — Red China's current Soviet-baiting campaign apparently is aimed at provoking the Kremlin to break state or party ties with Peking. So far Moscow has not risen to the bait.

Seeming to sense danger, the Russians are displaying a patience that must be galling to fiery-tempered Premier Khrushchev.

Hold Border Show

Aside from propaganda attacks linking Khrushchev with the "imperialist enemy," the Red Chinese put on a rowdy two-day demonstration on the Soviet-Chinese border in Siberia last week that outraged the Russians.

The government newspaper Izvestia told its readers Tuesday what it said went on at Naushki, a border point, when the Peking-Moscow Express crossed from China Friday.

Chinese passengers openly displayed contempt for the Russians by defying customs officials, roughing up passersby and — in a crowning indignity — by urinating in the railway station, Izvestia reported.

Deliberate Attempt

The impression left by this and other provocative actions by the Chinese in recent months clearly indicates a deliberate attempt to infuriate the Russians.

China might want a break in party or even government relations, and hopes to force Moscow to take the step or to give the Chinese the pretext for rupturing relations.

Keep Within Lines

But Soviet propaganda organs in heaping abuse on the Chinese, keep well within guidelines laid down by major party statements on the Soviet-Chinese quarrel.

The major Soviet refrain is the Soviet Union's avowed dedication to peace and its opposition to alleged Chinese demands for war.

Kremlin propaganda chiefs are now believed working on a reply to Peking's virulent charges against Khrushchev last week.

There is speculation in Moscow that the Chinese might be building up to a discussion of Khrushchev's activities as one of Stalin's top lieutenants and other hitherto unpublished details of his career.

Another problem is the possible effect on the Soviet public of a frank discussion of topics taboo in the Soviet Union.

Problems Remain Despite Word on Draft Exclusion

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hundreds of young married men facing two years of Army life found themselves Tuesday in a situation similar to that of the prize fighter saved by the bell. In this case, it was a wedding bell.

The bell ringer was President Kennedy. He issued an executive order temporarily halting the draft of married men.

Only Minutes Away

Many men were only minutes away from induction when the order came through.

Some greeted the news with sighs of relief. Others saw problems.

And some, like three of eight married inductees at Atlanta, decided to go into the Army anyway.

One of the three, Thomas Byers, 23, of Rome, Ga., explained "My friends threw me a big going-away party—I'd be ashamed to go back now. Besides, I sold my new car."

Among the Atlanta inductees who chose civilian life, Earl G. Wheeler, 23, of Trenton, Ga., said: "It took me about as long to decide to go home as it did for them to ask the question."

Kennedy ordered that married men be inducted only after all acceptable single men in the 19-25 age group had been drafted.

Just Started Running

When Fred M. Fletcher got the news at a Seattle induction center, the 23-year-old bridegroom of five months "just started running."

"I actually ran out the door," Fletcher said, and kept running for about four blocks "before I happened to think it was a long way home to Bothell"—a Wash-

300 Pupils Back At Tillson School After Pump Fixed

Approximately 300 pupils today returned to classes at the Tillson School, after a day off due to complete failure of the water supply caused by a faulty pump system.

Dr. W. Wendell Hoover, superintendent of Kingston Consolidated District schools, said a substitute pump had been installed and will be in operation until the school pump is repaired.

"We were very fortunate in obtaining another pump to avoid any further delay in classes," Dr. Hoover said.

Demos Flay Rocky For Shift on Tax

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller was the target today of a hail of Democratic criticism prompted by his withdrawal of a pledge to hold the tax line during his second term.

State Comptroller Arthur Levitt, a Democrat, called Tuesday for "an objective, non-partisan, professional review" of state fiscal procedures."

Sen. Joseph Zaretzki and Assemblyman Anthony J. Travia, minority leaders of the Legislature, charged in separate statements that Rockefeller was "attempting to put the blame on the national administration for his own fiscal fakery."

And, in Lockport, Democratic State Chairman William H. McKeon said Rockefeller had repudiated his campaign tax pledge "apparently in a panic over his waning political fortunes."

Rockefeller told a news conference Monday he had based his no-tax-increase promise on economic goals outlined by Democratic President Kennedy. The governor said these goals were not realized.

Rockefeller is a possible opponent for Kennedy in the presidential election next year.

At the same news conference at which he made the tax announcement, Rockefeller denounced Levitt's continuing criticism of the state fiscal policy as "a pure-

William T. Mahoney, ticket chairman, is still receiving reservations for the dinner. Every effort will be made to accommodate all who desire to attend.

It is expected Mrs. Wagner will accompany Mayor Wagner.

Democrats from all over the county and neighboring counties have expressed their intention to attend.

Bear Killed in City

GLENS FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—A 275-pound black bear was cornered and killed Tuesday in the heart of the business district of this city of 20,000 residents.

Police said a terrified woman reported shortly after 6 a.m. that the bear was wandering in her neighborhood about a mile from the downtown section.

Two patrolmen and two sheriff's deputies chased it through city streets into the business district.

The bear ran behind a row of stores and finally was cornered at about 7 a.m. in an alleyway behind a clothing store. The men killed it with a shotgun and service revolvers.

Thuc Quits Rome, GetsChurchOrder To Quit Talking

ROME (AP) — Archbishop Pierre Martin Ngo Dinh Thuc, brother of President Ngo Dinh Diem of South Viet Nam, abruptly left Rome today and said the Vatican had ordered him to stop talking about the situation in his country.

The archbishop left on a plane bound for New York 24 hours after cancellation of an audience with Pope Paul VI. The Vatican is reported troubled by the recent crackdown on Buddhists by the Diem government.

Before boarding his flight he told newsmen: "I am not allowed to make any declarations owing to the veto imposed upon me by the Holy See.

"I have been told, in effect, 'basta' (enough) because my position doesn't allow me to express myself, especially in a foreign country. To be able to speak out it would be necessary for me to have in hand a permit from the Vatican secretariate of state. Only in my own diocese may I speak."

The archbishop, center of controversy since he arrived from Saigon five days ago, had said earlier he had no intention of leaving Rome this month. He said he would stay for the resumption of the Vatican Ecumenical Council Sept. 29.

Almost from the moment of his arrival in Rome, reports cropped up attributing political motives to the archbishop's visit.

Two Rome newspapers quoted him as accusing the United States of spending millions in an effort to have his brother replaced.

Archbishop Thuc denied the reports.

Congress to Ask Less Spending if Tax Cut Passes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress will be on record as urging the President to pledge "all reasonable means to restrain government spending" if it passes the $11-billion tax cut bill in its present form.

The administration also would be on notice that Congress expects any increased revenue to be used first to eliminate budget deficits and to reduce the public debt.

The majority of the House Ways and Means Committee wrote this language into the bill Tuesday after the close defeat of a Republican move to tie part of the tax cut directly to a limitation on spending.

Republicans, however, will renew the effort to force spending curbs at every legislative opportunity, and they count on the support of some fiscally conservative Democrats.

In addition to the drive to tie in spending limitations — which President Kennedy said would dilute the business stimulating potential of the tax cut — the legislation faces delay.

The administration is redoubling efforts to have Congress finish action on the tax cut this year, so that withholding rates can be reduced Jan. 1, leaving more spending money in pay envelopes.

As the bill is written, two-thirds of the individual tax cuts, eventually amounting to about $100 to $200 a year for most wage-earning and salaried families, would be effective Jan. 1. The remaining cut would come a year later.

N. Y. Firm Enters Innocent Plea to Anti-Trust Charge

CHICAGO (AP)—Seven companies and five officials of them pleaded innocent Tuesday to anti-trust charges growing out of sales of metal library shelves.

Judge Hubert L. Will of U.S. District Court continued the hearing to Dec. 9 and said he will set a trial date then.

The indictment returned in June accuses the companies and individuals of fixing prices and allocating customers in the sale of metal library shelves from 1954 to 1960.

Defendant firms are Sperry-Rand Corp. of Delaware; Art Metal, Inc., Jamestown, N.Y.; Globe Wernicke Co., Norwood, Ohio; W. R. Ames Co. of Milpitas, Calif.; Estey Corp., Red Bank, N.J.; Hamilton Manufacturing Co., Two Rivers, Wis., and Virginia Metal Products, Inc. of Orange, Va.

Channels Lacking

CHICAGO (AP)—In the efforts of the churches to achieve unity, they lack sufficient channels of communication with local congregations to enable them to make responsible decisions, the Rev. Dr. Harold E. Fey, editor of the Christian Century, told a Disciples of Christ meeting here.

If we do not really create the means by which our denomination can act on a democratic and representative basis, all of our protestations of ecumenicity will not avail to change the image of sectarianism," he said.

Why We Say--

GOOD LUCK: The Swastika actually had little meaning to the Germans. It came from the ancient Sanskrit and was a good luck symbol. The four points of it represent the four winds which brought good or bad weather for farmers.

MANKIND'S MASTER MIND

The human brain contains some 10 billion nerve cells, or neurons, that form interconnections whose number far surpasses all the stars of the universe. This is the source of the infinite complexity of individual behavior.

Human civilization is something like that, being built up out of the complex interconnections of the increasing millions of people.

But there are no built-in, natural connections between people. They have to communicate by "artificial" means.

Obviously, no individual can talk personally with everyone else. By means of radio and television, however, he can address an unlimited number at one time. Records and tapes add a time dimension to that ability.

But only the printed word allows others to absorb a man's thoughts at their leisure—and only through print can a man project his thoughts into the future, either near or distant, and fasten upon the minds of others.

Just as the brain receives a constant flood of information from the environment, so is human society being flooded with news, ideas, facts, developments and discoveries in the arts and sciences and every walk of life.

The result is a worsening log jam in the channels of information and a serious time lag before the majority of men can absorb and understand these changes.

It is as if that part of an individual brain which screens out all but essential information suddenly stopped working, allowing sensations from every nerve end to flood the conscious mind.

The effect would be chaotic and paralyzing. The situation in the field of scientific publications is approaching that state.

That is why some say we must begin to develop a "world brain"—a system to coordinate, screen and contain the world's growing knowledge.

The idea of a world brain was originated by H. G. Wells back in 1937 and was revived recently by Watson Davis, editor of Science Service, in testimony before a House subcommittee.

Like so many other Wellsian ideas, the world brain was ahead of its time. But recent advances in computers, microfilm techniques and the transmission of information have made a world brain entirely feasible.

As Davis said, we already have the know-how; all we need is the "let's-do."

BOOST FOR A TAX CUT

The Treasury Department has issued an optimistic analysis of the tax cut measure which, with Ways and Means Committee approval, now awaits action by the House of Representatives. After due allowance has been made for Treasury's interest in urging enactment, much of what is said appears to be sound.

It appears so, that is, to those who accept the basic premise that a tax reduction will give the national economy a much needed stimulus by pouring billions more into spending on goods and services. This is expected to create new jobs and ultimately result in even more tax revenue because of the economic growth.

This concept is opposed on two related grounds. One is the argument that deficit financing is inherently wrong, and that tax revenue should not be cut without a corresponding reduction in federal expenditure. The corollary to this is that if taxes are to be cut this should be done only in periods of recession and not at a time of relative prosperity as at present.

These arguments have been given a full hearing, as was proper. They will be heard again as the tax measure goes through the mill of debate. But on balance it seems reasonable to give the tax cut-stimulus theory a fair trial.

The tax program, says the Treasury Department, "will lift the repressive weight of income tax rates imposed on the economy in wartime to restrain demand, and permit it to grow more rapidly and create additional jobs." It goes on: "That is what it was designed for: to accelerate economic growth, to stimulate demand and incentives to invest, to narrow the gap that now exists between what we produce and what we could produce, and to reach full employment."

TIME FOR VICE PRESIDENTIAL TALK

The time has come to talk about Vice Presidential candidates. I say this because of the widespread feeling in Republican circles the "Goldwater's got it"—meaning, of course, the Presidential nomination. It is not so much that Republicans are certain that Barry is the man with the potential to beat a popular Kennedy. There are differences of opinion on that. But many possible local Republican candidates for state and Congressional offices are sure that, even with a losing Barry Goldwater at the head of the ticket, they themselves would have a better chance of pulling through. "Barry," says one pro, "would put steam behind local tickets."

With Barry "in" so far as first place on the Republican slate is concerned, as seems to be conceded even by New York Times Washington correspondents who would never vote for him, the question of balancing the ticket becomes uppermost. It goes without saying that a Vice President on a Goldwater ticket must be differentiated from Goldwater on both a regional and a philosophical basis. Plotting the choice mechanically, the Vice Presidential nomination should go to Governor Nelson Rockefeller or to Senator Jacob Javits, both of "liberal" and undeniably eastern New York State. However, the cut-and-dried mechanics of the situation break down in this particular case. If women have been truly outraged by Rockefeller's divorce and remarriage to a divorced mother, they would object to him as a second place man no less than as head of the ticket. Moreover, Rockefeller has the Achilles temperament: if he can't be the leader, it is doubtful that he would be willing to take a position as second in command.

Javits, of course, is something else again. But Javits has been so blatantly at odds with everything that Goldwater stands for that a Goldwater-Javits slate might seem offensively cynical. The Democrats would be able to make an inordinate amount of election day yardage merely by playing up the ideological clash between Goldwater and Javits as is proved by their respective Senatorial voting records.

So write New York State off, then, as good quarrying ground for Republican Vice Presidential timber in 1964. That is, write it off if Senator Keating, who would provide a good geographical and philosophical balance, still insists on running again for the Senate, as he seems so wholeheartedly intent upon doing.

With New York out for such special reasons, the choice narrows down to any one of three or four populous industrial states in the northeastern quarter of the nation. Senator Case of New Jersey shares the shortcomings of Senator Javits; he is too blatantly "liberal" to seem like a sincere offering on a Goldwater ticket. Governor Scranton of Pennsylvania, a liberal with just enough protective coloration in fiscal matters to be palatable to conservatives, would make a fair choice for a Goldwater running mate. Ohio's Governor Rhodes is another possibility, though his personality may seem at first glance to be too colorless and unobtrusive to generate election day sparks. Illinois' own "Ev" Dirkson, Senate Minority Leader, comes appropriately from a state that can be considered on the outermost edge of the industrial Northeast and hence would provide geographical balance to Arizona's Goldwater. But the philosophical balance here would manifestly be missing.

My own feeling is that the best running mate for Goldwater would be the man from Michigan, Governor George Romney. As a Presidential possibility he has been running way ahead of Governor Scranton in the public opinion polls. This popularity could rub off on him as Vice Presidential timber. Although the United Automobile Workers did not endorse him for Governor of Michigan, Romney has pulling power in labor circles because of the generous profit-sharing contract with the UAW local which he helped write when he was head of the American Motors Company. He has been against industrial "bigness," which should endear him to the liberals who fear the power of the corporations. Incidentally, his old labor relations man in American Motors, Eddie Cushman, would make a wonderful Secretary of Labor.

With all his liberal coloration, Romney, a top-flight industrialist, could not be anathema to believers in free enterprise. And his Mormon religious affiliation is a guarantee that he would not be in favor of centralizing all the welfare services of the nation under a Washington bureaucracy. The Mormons believe in self-help, church help, and town-and-state help before they believe in federal help.

A Goldwater-Romney ticket—what a dream ticket that would be.

The DOCTOR SAYS

Drug Addiction Problem Through Eyes of a Doctor

Narcotics is a subject that concerns all of us because of its close relationship to juvenile delinquency. It is also a subject about which there is still a great deal of confusion and emotionally charged difference of opinion.

Before there can be an addict there must be a susceptible person, availability of an addiction-producing drug, and an environment that favors addition.

Most of the addicts who make drug addiction the serious problem it is are young men between the ages of 16 and 30.

The chief drug of addiction is heroin. Environmental factors include overcrowding in substandard dwellings in large cities, and gangs in which addiction is accepted as a way of life.

Drug addiction is a truly deplorable illness. In a well-meaning attempt to protect the potential addict the Harrison Narcotic Act was passed in 1914. This law has unfortunately had the opposite effect.

By making it a criminal offense for physicians to treat addicts by giving them maintenance doses of drugs it had the effect of causing doctors to stop treating addicts.

The average addict who can get his drugs regularly can manage to live a fairly normal life. Many persons in high places have maintained such an addiction without even their closest associates ever suspecting that they were taking drugs.

When, however, we make it hard for the addict to get his daily supply, he will suffer the extreme tortures of withdrawal.

To prevent this he will steal or even commit murder. Since the doctors can no longer treat his illness he is forced to turn to the underworld for treatment.

Many addicts, in order to insure their own supply, become dope peddlers and induce other susceptible persons to become addicts. Thus a bad situation not only perpetuates itself but spreads.

Since the number of victims of this vicious system cannot be known accurately, estimates of the number in the United States range from 60,000 to one million. The true figure is probably somewhere in between. A note of optimism has recently been sounded.

Although most young men who are taken off drugs relapse quickly, there is a growing evidence that when they reach the age of 30 to 35, many (not all), voluntarily break the habit. This is believed to be a sign of their reaching a new level of maturity.

This still does not solve the problem of the wasted years, the prevention of addiction in a new crop of youngsters, or the treatment of older persons who cannot break the habit.

One of the first steps that must be taken is to amend the laws in such a way as to place treatment back in the hands of legitimate doctors.

Washington News

BY PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—This is going to be a piece about fall tourism and the beauties of nature in autumn.

President Kennedy is going to travel through Pennsylvania and nine western states Sept. 25-29.

Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York is visiting five states in early September prior to a swing through Europe Sept. 24-30. Mrs. Rockefeller II is going with him.

Sen. Barry Goldwater so far has accepted invitations to deliver lectures in 10 states—and there may be more later.

ANY EVIL THOUGHTS that there are political implications to all this should be promptly scrubbed from the mind. Because these three tourists say they are nonpolitical tours. The remote fact that there is a presidential election in 1964 is said to be purely coincidental. September and October are simply the perfect months for vacationing.

Flying weather is perfect most days, before the fogs of November and the snows of December set in. And there' a nip in the air that makes every patriotic public official want to get out and inspect the crops after the fall harvest. That's all there is to it, gentle readers.

WHY, PRESIDENT KENNEDY himself says he is just going out to check up on conservation and reclamation and the recreational facilities behind power dams and government-made lakes.

The White House announcement said the President would inspect national parks, seashores, wilderness areas. So you can see this is just a nature lover's holiday. Anything to get out of Washington for a breath of fresh air.

Anyone who thinks that what the President would really like to conserve and reclaim are six western states he lost in 1960—North Dakota with four electoral votes, Montana four, Wyoming three, Utah four, Oregon six and California 22 is a meany.

GOLDWATER ISN'T EVEN a presidential candidate yet, according to him. The Draft Goldwater headquarters in Washington says it is doing nothing to promote his tour or get out the crowds. They still aren't speaking to each other. Nature lover Goldwater is just going to inspect the grass roots.

Two of his appearances will be before Republican women—who are great gardeners—in Chicago Sept. 11 and San Diego Oct. 3.

Four of his appearances will be just to help the Republicans raise funds in Pennsylvania—Gov. William W. Scranton, a potential rival, invited him — Oklahoma, New Jersey and Massachusetts. Goldwater will visit JFK's home town of Boston Oct. 16 to show how much he loves him.

In New York, Goldwater will be fall guy Sept. 17 at a Buffalo Circus Saints and Sinners affair, which is just for fun. In New York City he will attend a Financial World dinner Oct. 31, which is strictly business. And he wouldn't think of trying to take delegates away from Gov. Rockefeller. Or would he?

GOLDWATER AND ROCKEFELLER will both speak at the Western Republican Rally in Eugene, Ore., Oct. 12. They will speak at different times in different halls so nobody will get the crass idea of comparing the two men or their views.

Also, Gov. Mark Hatfield is a GOP presidential nominee possibility and neither Rockefeller nor Goldwater want to undercut Oregon's own favorite son. Or would they?

Rockefeller's real interest is said to be the Republican governors' conference in Denver Sept. 14. His other dates are Oregon, Ill., Sept. 7; Huntington, W. Va., Sept. 21, and Roanoke, Va., the next day.

Of course, there might be some real political significance to Rockefeller's European trip. Vice President Lyndon Johnson is in Europe now, preparing the ground for his possible candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1968. Rocky can't afford to let Lyndon get ahead of him there, as the two might be rival candidates five years from now. But as for 1964—perish the naughty thought.

President's Use of Troops In South Called Unlawful

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — What Gov. Wallace of Alabama did may be subject to wide criticism, but, viewed strictly from a Constitutional standpoint, President Kennedy had not one iota of authority to use troops in Alabama. Many people will say that the end justified the means, but this is exactly the rule of expediency which has been used again and again throughout the world to justify a military coup d'etat or a dictatorship.

This weakness on the Constitutional side emerged when President Eisenhower used troops at Little Rock, Ark., and when President Kennedy did the same at Oxford, Miss., and more recently at Tuscaloosa, Ala. The proclamation and executive order issued by Mr. Kennedy cites two specific statutes as giving him authority for his action, but nowhere in these statutes is the Chief Executive authorized to use Federal troops to enforce court orders. There was once a law which gave such authority to the President, but it was repealed by Congress just before the Little Rock episode in 1957.

Today the only Constitutional method of enforcing court orders is by arrests made by U. S. marshals, followed by contempt proceedings if necessary, and sentences by judges in courts of law.

The two statutes cited—Sections 332 and 333 of Title 10 of the United States Code—permit the use of armed forces whenever there is "any insurrection, domestic violence, unlawful combination, or conspiracy" that hinders the execution of the laws of a state or the laws of the United States, or that impedes the course of justice under those laws.

But the desegregation decisions of the Supreme Court have never been enacted into law and can be legally enforced only by the judicial process itself, without the use of the militia or the armed forces.

The impression given by the President's proclamation is that there has been a "rebellion" and that the State of Alabama itself, as well as its citizens and local officials, has resisted a law of the United States.

But the fact is that there has never been a statute passed by Congress requiring desegregation of public schools, and there is no mention of education in the Constitution. The Fourteenth Amendment itself—on which the court ruling are based—specifies that Congress alone shall pass laws enforcing its provisions.

The Governor of Alabama has a right to decline to accept what he considers an unwise decision by the Supreme Court relating to a state law, and to test it again and again. The 1954 ruling of the high court was rendered in a particular case, and it is the right of litigants to bring in other cases with new facts and to carry them to the Supreme Court on the theory that a new argument might be devised which would modify or reverse a previous decision.

Yet the President in his proclamation takes it for granted that a Federal court decision and a Federal law are the same thing, and that the statutes which give him authority to use troops to enforce the laws of the United States are the same as a statute authorizing the use of troops to enforce court decisions. The method of enforcement of court orders—arrest by U. S. marshals—is the only one at present provided by Congress.

Congress has been in session almost uninterruptedly while the crises in Alabama and Mississippi have been going on and, although a majority of both houses of Congress are of the same political party as the President, there has not been a statute passed authorizing the use of troops to enforce court orders or requiring desegregation of public schools.

The statutes quoted by Mr. Kennedy refer to "insurrection, domestic violence, unlawful combination or conspiracy." But there is no evidence that the acts of a Governor who exercises his authority as chief executive of state to block what he believes is an unwise court order constitutes a rebellion or conspiracy against the "laws" of the United States.

State troopers have been maintaining order, and the state militia was available to suppress violence if the state troopers and local police were not adequate for the occasion. President Kennedy, however, chose to regard the act of the Governor himself as an act of rebellion against the authority of the United States, though the statutes refer only to acts that impede the enforcement of laws—not court decisions.

Many people will say that legal technicalities are of no consequence and that by this time the Governor of Alabama and any other Governor should recognize "the law of the land." But these are observations which have no regard for the actual wording of the laws of the United States and the Constitution itself. As a matter of fact, Congress has specifically declared in Section 1385 of Title 18 of the United States Code:

"Whoever, except in cases and under circumstances expressly authorized by the Constitution or act of Congress, wilfully uses any part of the Army or the Air Force as a posse comitatus or otherwise to execute the laws shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned not more than two years, or both."

Thus, there is no authority today to Federalize the state militia or to use Federal troops to enforce court orders even as an aid to U. S. marshals. But, as the Governor of Arkansas said on Tuesday, a President cannot be arrested. So the legal question may never be resolved by the Supreme Court.

Recall, used principally in the United States, is a device by which voters remove a public official from office before the expiration of the term. It is based upon the principle that officials are mere agents of the popular will and as such should be constantly subject to its control.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Two letters . . .

"Dear Jim: This afternoon, we got the results of the tests; my wife is pregnant. This bit of information, and the manner in which it is received, depends upon many factors. Were we praying for our first, it would mean one thing. Or for our second. Or our third. But this is number four.

"If the four were bunched together it would be all right. But our oldest is a strapping 200-pounder. Our youngest is a pigtailed doll of 8. My wife and I are not kids. I'm 43; she'll be 40 in two months. I did a full 4 years in WW II as an infantryman. I was recalled for Korea and stayed for 7 years. So I'm now—at my age—about where the ordinary guy is 5 years after he starts out to set the world on fire.

"I have a responsible job. Three years ago, we bought a house. We eat too well, drive two cars, have two TV sets and all the comforts. So it's not a financial problem. It is the emotional impact upon my wife to discover at this late date that the Good Lord is about to bless us again—and after such a long drought.

"Me? Frankly, I have mixed emotions. I know that when this little one is in high school, I'll be an old man. I further realize that this is an additional responsibility; yet I feel I'm man enough to handle it. I realize that we're not as close to those days of sitting and dreaming without kids underfoot as we were a month ago. Our house is CRO when the two teenage boys bring in friends who are 50 per cent appetite. This is going to mean a change in our way of living.

"On the other hand . . . Our youngest, I guess will be grown and gone before we take our next breaths. The new one will be a world of pride and pleasure in the years ahead. The Lord matched us well: our children are the healthiest in the world—solid, wholesome kids. My wife and I both enjoy excellent health.

"I know that within your acquaintance there are many couples who have surmounted this situation. For my wife's sake, in the next few weeks, could you do a column on the subject? Something similar to your 'Lazy Sunday at Home' which invoked that happy, choked up feeling . . .

"So there's my first fan letter—at least, the first ever completed. I might even mail it. I needed someone to talk to . . ."

San. Antonio, Texas.
Mr. R.

"Dear Mr. Bishop:

"Your column of August 21st struck a responsive chord in me and I feel impelled to write to you. Truly you speak correctly 'Fire . . . Cannot Be Trusted.'

"I had never particularly feared fire. We were always prepared for it as best we could be. If we were at home we could do something about it. If we weren't home, it didn't matter. Our preparations were much as you have done—fire extinguishers all over the place; fire alarms which were to go off when heat became excessive; a rope for those upstairs to come down an outside window; adequate wiring.

"A little over a year ago, my husband Lawrence and I, and Carol, our oldest child, went to a PTA meeting in La Plata because it featured a Science Fair in which Carol had won a first place award. We left Jerry, 14, in charge of Johnny 12, Douglas, 5, and Mark Randall, nine months.

"We got home a little after ten. As we drove up, we noticed heavy smoke and wondered out loud what could be causing it. When we got into the driveway, Lawrence was out and running. I began yelling for the children to come out because there was no one in sight at all. I tried to go in the front door but even though I got clear down to the floor the smoke and heat were so bad I knew I didn't have much chance of getting to the baby.

"I went around the back and my husband said 'I don't know, Mommy' and that was the last I ever heard from him. He turned away from me and ran around to the front of the house. Jerry, our oldest boy, pointed to the flames and told me that daddy had gone through the front door. Had I seen him, I would have hung on for dear life. He would have to drag me in too.

"Little Dougie was seen in the flames at the upstairs window, but he disappeared. I lost him that night. I lost Johnny. I lost Mark Randall. And I lost my husband. He was found close to the baby's crib.

"You wrote about fire. It brought back a night to remember.

"Sincerely,
Mrs. Eleanor S. Jones
La Plata, Maryland."

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

MARCH COSTS: The civil rights march on Washington, Aug. 28, may cost the District of Columbia about $163,794.

NO PASSPORTS: The State Department has declared it will not validate passports for Americans wishing to attend a congress of the International Union of Architects in Havana Sept. 29-Oct. 3.

The Fidel Castro government, a State Department spokesman said Tuesday, "is using the congress for Communist propaganda purposes and trying to make it appear that attendance of U.S. citizens at the congress is in praise of the Castro regime."

ENLISTMENT TROUBLES: The federal government's use of some Southern National Guard units in integration crises may be causing some difficulties in getting new men and keeping veterans, a National Guard Bureau spokesman reports.

"We can't overlook this as a factor," he said.

Dangerous Situation

Editor, The Freeman:

The fatal traffic accident on Route 28 a few days ago should be a warning to correct a dangeous situation immediately. According to state police (Kingston Daily Freeman, September 5), the driver "apparently lost control of his car and struck the guard fence in the center of the roadway," about a mile west of the Route 209 intersection. He "was rounding a slight curve in the highway and failed to negotiate the turn."

In my opinion, it is surprising that more accidents have not yet happened at this spot because:

(1) The two yellow center lines are missing at the place of accident. The lines discontinue about 500 ft. west, with no guide lines for cars approaching the divided highway. The lines are especially important at that location because of the slight curve to the right which tends to "pull" vehicles toward and across the center of the road.

(2) There is no light or reflector at the beginning of the guard rail in the center of the road.

(3) The guard rail starts right in the center of the paved road (not on gravel or lawn), in a curve, and at a place where the center strip is just beginning and still very narrow. If a car drives only 1-½ feet off to the left of the passing lane, it will hit the end of the guard rail head-on. This obviously happened in the case of the fatal accident and is not surprising because of the missing center lines and missing reflector at the guard rail.

I hope that these three potential causes of further accidents will be eliminated as soon as possible.

Sincerely yours,
H. E. MEHRING

Railway Builder Dies

LONDON (AP) — The death of John Howey, 76, builder of one of the world's smallest public railroads, was announced today.

Howey built the Romney, Hythe and Dymchurch Light Railway in the southeast corner of England in the 1920s. It is less than 20 miles long. Ever since, it has been carrying freight or passengers. Passengers sit on top of the cars.

The army took over the railway in World War II to ferry pipes for the oil pipeline under the English Channel.

Howey died Sunday at his home at Littlestone, close to the line that was both his hobby and a lucrative business.

Man Is Jailed In Dutchess Dupe

Accused of obtaining $1,000 from a Rhinebeck woman through false pretenses, Jesse Raymond Mowery, 70, who has no permanent home, was taken into custody Tuesday by State Police BCI investigators on a charge of grand larceny first degree.

Mowery was arraigned before Justice of the Peace George W. Harrington, Town of Rhinebeck, and requested a hearing, which was set for Monday, Sept. 16 at 2 p. m. In lieu of $2,000 bail the defendant was ordered held in the Dutchess County jail.

Troopers reported Mowery allegedly told the woman, who was not identified, that he lost a considerable sum of money in Poughkeepsie. He reportedly gave her a post-dated check in return for $1,000 after he allegedly told the woman he had a bank account in Texas.

Authorities said they were notified of the $1,000 transaction after Mowery reportedly attempted to obtain additional money from the Rhinebeck resident.

Investigation was conducted by BCI Investigators Wesley Nolan and Joseph Waters.

Chamber Names Whittington New Board Director

Richard H. Whittington, manager of the J. C. Penney Co., on Wall Street, was named as a director of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce to fill the vacancy created by the death of James A. Hanstein. Herman G. Rafalowsky, of Rafalowsky's Men's Shop on Albany Avenue, was named as a director of Pageant, Inc. to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Robert Strickland. Pageant, Inc., conducts the annual Miss New York State Pageant here.

These appointments were made at the regular meeting of the board of directors of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night at which president Harry Rigby.

The directors also decided to make a final check with members who have not paid their dues for 1963-64 before sending the new classified directory to the printers. Only paid up members or those who have made arrangements to pay at a later date will be included.

Prepares Candidate List

William Darling was named as chairman of the special nominating committee which has the responsibility of preparing a list of from 30 to 50 candidates for the office of director of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce. This list will be submitted to the membership on or about November 1. The 14 receiving the highest number of nominating votes will then be decdared elected as directors.

The Chamber directors also discussed possible means of handling the hundreds of requests for vacation information more effectively. It was pointed out that information on a variety of area facilities are not now available. Many of the requests involve the Central Catskill region. Suggestions as to how such requests can be handled would be appreciated.

Howard A. Lewis, chairman of the Chamber's special committee to promote tourism, reported substantial progress toward having the Kingston Area and the Hudson Valley included on organized package tours from Boston and New York City. Chris Larios reported progress in plans to have packaged information available for firms interested in expanding or locating new industrial plants in the Kingston Area. James E. Norton, chairman of the annual banquet committee reported that efforts have been started to engage a speaker for a banquet late in January or February.

To Meet October 9

The Chamber of Commerce also voted to send a letter to J. A. DeBiase of Monticello, who is chairman of a committee to preserve the use of billboard advertising along the highways of our State. More information as to the type of regulations and controls is sought before any specific action or stand is to be taken.

The next regular meeting of the board of directors of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce will take place on October 9.

Everys Recovering

Police Chief Robert F. Murphy today said Patrolman Gerald Every, of 27 Tietjen Avenue, and Mrs. Every, who were injured several weeks ago in an automobile mishap near Blackstone, Va., are recovering satisfactorily at home, and the officer "hopes to return to duty in the near future." The chief said the officer expressed his thanks to his many friends "for their cards and letters which helped in so many ways to brighten his darkest hours."

Police Restrain N.C. Race Tiff

HIGH POINT, N.C. (AP) — Hundreds of Negroes and whites confronted each other twice Tuesday night as this city's antisegregation movement continued to grow.

Police said a Negro policeman was injured slightly by a stone thrown by a white man. There were reports of several rock-throwing incidents on the outskirts of two demonstrations.

The city's 80-man police force, about two dozen sheriff's deputies and 18 state troopers forcibly restrained 2,000 whites from attacking nearly 700 Negroes during the first march.

Later, about 400 Negroes and a few white demonstrators were met at a main street intersection by a smaller group of whites. Police rushed into the intersection and kept the groups apart.

The second group marched to the city-county building and conducted a brief prayer and song service, then dispersed.

The Rev. B. Elton Cox, a field representative for the Congress of Racial Equality, rejected a request from city officials to call of nightly demonstrations, which led to the arrest of 364 Negroes Monday night. He said any suspension of demonstrations might imply that Negroes are not sincere in their demands for total integration.

Birmingham Is

ident Kennedy quickly placed the soldiers under federal control and prohibited them from carrying out Wallace's orders.

About 200 Guardsmen moved into a Birmingham armory for use if requested by city authorities in keeping order.

"I'm sure we can handle it—if I didn't think so, I wouldn't hesitate to call for help," said Police Chief Jamie Moore.

Aheavy force of city policemen and county officers quelled disturbances by pupils and angry adults at West End High School in Birmingham after two Negro girls entered the school.

Only about 150 white pupils stayed in West End after the Negro girls went inside. Hundreds of white pupils, joined by militant adults, jeered the Negroes and policemen. Scuffles ensued. Policemen called in the riot squad, armed with shotguns and carbines.

Clubs Prod Crowds

Clubs were used to prod the crowds. Nine men were arrested, some for scuffling with officers and some for disobeying orders to move. Among those arrested was Barnie M. Carmack Jr., who said he belonged to the segregationist National States Rights party. He was arrested a week ago in a similar demonstration at another Birmingham school.

David Stanley, 18, was arrested on a charge of assaulting an officer with intent to murder in an earlier demonstration Tuesday.

A small concussion grenade was thrown against the house of a Negro family Tuesday night. No one was hurt and there was no damage. It was the third bombing here in less than a week.

No Trouble in Tuskegee

In Tuskegee, 13 Negroes attended classes at a white school for the first time. There was no trouble.

Negroes outnumber white residents 4 to 1 in Tuskegee, site of Tuskegee Institute, founded by Booker T. Washington.

Police in Mobile made three arrests as a white high school was desegregated, but Negro pupils met an orderly reception.

Receptions at two Birmingham schools—Ramsay and Graymont—also were orderly.

In Huntsville, where school integration came quietly Monday, Negroes went to classes again with no sign of trouble.

The day's events left only Mississippi without token integration of pre-college public schools.

Picket Coxsackie School

COXSACKIE, N.Y. (AP) — An estimated 100 pupils picketed the local high school today to protest the lack of free books since the Board of Education adopted an austerity budget.

Savago Is Choice At Paltz, Other GOP Favorites

One contest developed at the Town of New Paltz Republican caucus held at the firehouse Tuesday evening, when Anthony Fracenella opposed the incumbent, Kenneth Hotaling for the office of councilman. Hotaling won the contest, receiving 218 votes. His opponent polled 74. Hotaling will be running for his second term.

Supervisor Peter Savago, who has served two terms as supervisor, was the unanimous choice of the caucus. Prior to being supervisor he had served two terms as town clerk-collector.

Named for the third term for town clerk-collector was Theodore Lasher.

Robert Harp, who was appointed justice of the peace on September first to fill a vacancy created when Justice of the Peace John B. Teneglia resigned, was the candidate named to run for the unexpired term. Named as the other justice of the peace for re-election was S. Parks Glen.

William Heidgerd, appointed about a year ago as assessor, was named for the two year term and William Schmalkuche Sr. was named for his second term of four years.

Isaac Pole was named to succeed himself as highway superintendent. He has served four terms.

Town Democrats In Saugerties Announce Slate

Town of Saugerties Democrats in caucus Monday night announced a full slate of candidates for the November elections.

The slate is headed by Richard W. Geuss of Lafayette Street, a retired lieutenant colonel of the U. S. Air Force, for supervisor; Dorothea S. Condon of Mt. Marion, town clerk; Gustav Rose, Barclay Heights, superintendent of highways; Kenneth G. Blundell, Democratic town chairman, for justice of the peace; Maurice Hinchey Sr., of Fish Creek and Ralph Raimondi of Glasco, for the councilman posts, and Albert V. Conte of Washington Avenue, police justice.

Geuss recently came into local prominence when he was defeated in a three way race in the Democratic primary for county committeeman. He was defeated in the First District by Lewis M. Robinson, who received 10 votes, and John J. Kaminski, who received 8. Geuss was third with 5 votes.

TV Covers Talks

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The 119th U.S.-Red Chinese ambassadorial meeting began today in an unusual atmosphere of clicking cameras, floodlights and security guards.

Ambassadors John Moors Cabot and Wang Ping-nan had the start of their face-to-face meeting in Warsaw's Mysliwiecke Palace filmed by a local television crew at the request of Western news media.

Newsmen, for probably the first time since the talks began in Geneva in 1955, were allowed into the meeting room to actually witness a brief exchange by the two ambassadors.

Cabot and Wang stood behind polished tables 10 feet apart, each flanked by three aides. They exchange curt smiles and half bows.

Quads Are Named

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Misses A, B, C, and D Harkins now have names.

They are Alice Bernice, Elizabeth Jane, Mary Regina and Anita Margaret.

The quadruplets were born last Saturday to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Harkins of Jackson. They had expected only twins and were short of names anyway, having had to choose for their other five children. So the quads were assigned letters temporarily.

College Trustees Strongly Behind Milliken for Job

The board of trustees of the Ulster County Community College through its president, Kenneth Davenport of Stone Ridge, has announed that it will stand "unaltered and firm" on its resolution recommending to the Ulster County board of supervisors Albert E. Milliken, Kingston architect, as permanent architect for the Community College to be erected at the Stone Ridge site.

It is expected the matter of selecting an architect will come before the Board of Supervisors at its regular meeting Thursday evening.

Course of Events

A resolution to select an architect to prepare final plans and specifications for the college had been on the agenda of the board at a special meeting on August 22, but was withdrawn. At that time the Community College committee of the board of supervisors reported that meetings had been held with the trustees but no conclusive action had been taken. A meeting was scheduled for the following week with the trustees and pending the outcome of that meeting the committee was not prepared to make any recommendation. After a long caucus at which the withdrawal of the resolution on college architect was discussed, the resolution was withdrawn and action was postponed until the September meeting.

The trustees of the Community College have recommended to the board of supervisors that Albert E. Milliken, Kingston architect, be selected as architect to make final plans for the college.

A preliminary engineering study of the Stone Ridge site by Brinnier and Larios, Kingston engineers, was authorized some time ago and on March 8, 1962, at the same meeting at which trustees for the Community College were appointed by the board of supervisors, the Community College committee of the board of supervisors recomended that Augustus R. Schrowang and Associates, who made a preliminary study of all sites under consideration prior to the referendum on the college, be considered as permanent architects for the college project. That resolution recommending that Brinner and Larios and Augustus R. Schrowang be considered permanent, was unanimously adopted by the board of supervisors.

Since then a difference of opinion has developed in the board. Following the recent recommendation by the college board of trustees that Albert E. Milliken be considered, several members of the board of supervisors have expressed opinions as to appointment of an architect to make final plans for the college. Among them is former chairman Robert Phinney, 11th ward supervisor, who has come out for Albert E. Milliken on the grounds he has been recommended by the board of trustees.

In a statement issued by Kenneth Davenport, chairman of the board of trustees of the Community College he says:

"The board of trustees of the Ulster Community College stands unaltered and firm on its resolution to the board of supervisors in recommending the appointment of Albert Edward Milliken as permanent architect for the college, and ferverently hope they will pass favorably on our selection."

Demo Caucuses Held in Esopus, Woodstock, Lloyd

Democrats in the towns of Woodstock, Lloyd and Esopus met Tuesday night in caucus and nominated candidates for the November election.

Supervisor John J. Gaffney, minority leader of the board of supervisors and a member of the board since 1950, did not seek the Democratic nomination in the Town of Lloyd and Harry Weezenaar, presently an assessor of the town, was nominated Tuesday evening at the Democratic caucus. The caucus, held at the town hall in Highland, was one of the largest attended in years. There were on contests.

Nominated for the office of justice of the peace was a former New York State trooper, now retired, Sergeant Linn Baker who for many years was stationed in Highland.

Other incumbents nominated were:

Town Clerk, Vincent J. Gaffney; Superintendent of Highways, Peter J. Anella; Assessor, four year term, Cos A. Trapani; Assessor, two years, Thomas Shay Sr., and Councilman, Harry Colyer.

In the Town of Esopus, Democrats in causus at the Town Hall at Port Ewen nominated without opposition six candidates and must fill two places on the ballot.

Incumbent Supervisor Roger W. Mabie of Port Ewen was renominated for that position.

Others named were Mrs. Ethel Reilly of Esopus for town clerk; Zale Liese of Port Ewen for justice of the peace; Ronald Sickler of Sleightsburgh for councilman; William Fitzgerald of Connelly for assessor two years, and Mrs. Anne Ryerson of Port Ewen, collector.

The committee on vacancies, Charles Perry, town Democratic chairman; David Reilly and Cornelius Lynch will seek candidates for the positions of assessor four years, and highway superintendent.

Results of the Town of Woodstock Democratic caucus, which notes the nomination of Charles J. Tiano, Kingston Freeman sports editor as candidate for supervisor, is reported in the Woodstock column.

Sanitation Head Says Study Is On To Cut Out Dumps

Harry F. Edinger, director of environmental sanitation of the Ulster County Health Department, said today areas are under study for a refuse disposal site in Kingston to eliminate conditions existing at the Fourth Ward city dump.

In commenting on complaints from residents of that area about obnoxious odors, smoke and other disturbing conditions, Direcior Edinger noted that no administration in the city has been unaware of the situation, which he referred to as a difficult problem.

Working On Plan

Edinger stated that he has met with some town boards in the county and discussed with officials appropriations sufficient to finance the cost of refuse disposal and maintenance of sites in suitable areas.

He said he is trying to get together with other boards in the city, towns and villages of the county to discuss refuse disposal problems and possible remedies.

The director of environmental sanitation noted that the city is not without plans for future refuse disposal, and commented that it is the question of doing the best the city can with the present site until another one is provided. He said that the present refusal disposal site in the Fourth Ward has limited life and the question to be decided is how much money is to be spent for a new site.

Not Enough In Budgets

A problem in many towns of the county Edinger said develops because town boards do not appropriate sufficient funds for refuse disposal. He noted that one township appropriated $400 a year, although the total cost would reach in the neighborhood of $4,000 annually.

Edinger said that a relatively large disposal site is now serving the township and village of New Paltz satisfactorily.

He stated that a problem in the Kingston area is to establish a method of dispoal that will serve the city for 10 years or more.

Mothers Continue March Today for School Bus Rides

A group of mothers and children, seeking school bus accommodation for a downtown area, who began a protest march Monday, continued their walk today.

It was reported without incident and police noted no interference with traffic.

A spokesman for the group said Tuesday they would take their problem to Albany if they fail to gain satisfaction at another meeting with the school board here.

The mothers hold that the board's transportation policy is unfair in that some children a half mile distant from schools in outlying areas of the district ride buses while downtown children walk a mile to the Sophie G. Finn School.

The board claims it is impractical to change transportation policy after the annual budget has been adopted and the tax rate determined.

Soviet Car for Castro

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A Soviet-made automobile, gift of Premier Nikita Khrushchev, has been presented to Fidel Castro, Havana radio says.

The broadcast Tuesday said the car was given in recognition of the Cuban prime minister's praise of progress in the Soviet auto industry.

Award to Protestants

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio (AP) —The "Caritas Medal," an annual award by the Roman Catholic Diocese of Steubenville for distinguished service, was presented recently to seven non-Catholics, including three Protestant pastors — a Methodist, Disciple and Presbyterian—and an Episcopal bishop.

Catholic Bishop John King Mussio said the seven have shown a "spirit of cooperation with everyone" and "an extraordinary attitude that has been a fertile seeding ground for good will and effective cooperation in serving their community."

Bear to Skunk

SARANAC LAKE, N.Y. (AP)—Mrs. Blanche Griswold heard a crash in her backyard during the night and turned on the garage floodlight.

She spotted a large black bear trying to reach some garbage pails inside the garage.

Mrs. Griswold called the police. The bear scampered back into the woods, and Mrs. Griswold went back to sleep.

A few hours later she was awakened again by a noise in her yard and called police immediately. This time it was a skunk prying into the garbage collection.

POLITICAL FEELERS—With eyes on the 1964 presidential nominating convention, New York's Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and Sen. Barry Goldwater, Arizona Republican, have charted tours around the nation to test the sentiment of GOP leaders and carry their messages to rank and file voters. Newsmap shows the courses they will follow, along with that of President Kennedy, who will tour 10 states in five days on a trip labeled by the White House as "strictly nonpolitical."

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

Those who are now going to the Myron J. Michael School, may be interested in an item I have from the Kingston Daily Freeman of Thursday Jan. 3, 1901. At the time, Myron J. Michael was principal and Charles M. Ryon was secretary of the famous Kingston Academy, Academy Green. This school was founded in 1774, and was advertised far and wide as being Kingston-on-Hudson, as students came from other areas to enjoy this fine Academy. It was considered an English and Classical school, preparing both sexes for college, business or the teaching profession. A teachers training class was organized in 1899, to members of this class, tuition and textbooks were free, for others the tuition was not too expensive. The fall term began Sept. 5, 1899.

I see a social note in the January, 1901 paper which may be interesting to Miss Mary Polhemus, principal of the Sophie G. Finn School. Back in 1901, at a special session of the Classis of Ulster in the First Reformed Church, the Rev. C. H. Polhemus was received from the Classis of New Brunswick, N. J. The call was tendered to him by the Reformed Church of Port Ewen and the Rev. Mr. Polhemus was installed as Domine of the Port Ewen Church Wednesday evening Jan. 23. I see many interesting items covering the history of Kingston for 1900. For instance, May 6, 1900, Augustus J. Phillips brought his locomobile to Kingston. The first horseless carriage owned here. May 30, 1900, Kingston Point Park opened for the summer season. May 31, 1900, Wall Street residents celebrated the first improvement to their street in 50 years. (I wonder what it was?)

The Jan. 3, 1901 Freeman carried an interesting editorial on the century which passed. It read in part: "No other 100 years was ever filled with such astounding changes and discoveries. The horse-stage has been supplanted by the steam railway and the electric car. The primitive farm implements have given way to agricultural machinery which reduces the physical strain of the farm worker. The day has passed from the tallow dip to the electric light. Instead of beacon signals and slow messengers, we have the telegraph and telephone. The clumsy hand loom and little shoemaker's custom-made shoes have given in to big factories so the rich and poor alike can afford these new well made luxuries."

It further goes on to say, "Photography, lithography and improved printing machines have brought these crafts to within the pocket book of an average worker and reader. The hours of daily labor has been cut down from 13 hours to about 9. The facilities for education have been perfected, so that it is within the reach of everyone, who desires to study." That was written in our local press in 1901.

In the History of Kingston covering 1900, such items were of interest. March 1, 1900. Heavy rain caused freshets in Rondout and Esopus Creeks. The barge Hommel carried down stream and crashed against the lighthouse. Summer Street and Wilbur Road was badly washed out. Even in the 1960's the weather still wins against man and science. On March 8, 1900, the tugs, Norwich and Mills returned from Coxsackie, having failed to force a passage through the ice gorge. March 13, 1900, John D. Schoonmaker was elected a director of the American Ice Co. The ice houses are now gone, at which labor, fathers took their sons for "work on the ice."

We The Women

Bring Back the Pantry

By RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

"Give us back the old-fashioned walk-in pantry" was one of the suggestions made by housewives who attended a recent clinic on "Home Design and the American Family" at the National Housing Center in Washington.

How did women ever happen to let men take the pantry away from them, anyhow—considering how convenient it was for the family purchasing agent?

- Into a spacious pantry a woman could store all kinds of items to make her work easier. She could buy canned goods by the case, instead of the can.
- She could get by without going to market for days at a time, thanks to the well-stocked pantry that was like her own little grocery store.
- The unexpected guest didn't bother the woman who kept one shelf in her storage pantry for the makings of a variety of company meals—with the wherewithal to feed one unexpected guest or a carload of company.

Sure, the modern kitchen in most respects has it all over the kitchens of a bygone day. But with all their streamlining and labor-saving gadgets, the truth is that most of today's kitchens just don't have the storage place a family needs.

Bringing back the old-fashioned walk-in pantry, where stored food was together and easy to get to, would do a lot for the modern kitchen. It would do a lot, too, for the housewife. Today, she often has to buy in such limited quantities that she is forever running out of something she needs. Why? She hasn't room to keep a bountiful or even adequate supply of food and household items on hand.

Schatzel to Be Audit Chairman For Chest Drive

Paul J. Schatzel has been appointed as the audit chairman for the Ulster County Community Chest Red Feather Drive. Schatzel, a licensed public accountant, resides in Kingston and has his office at 70 St. James Street.

Schatzel was graduated from Manhattan College with the B.P.A. degree and served during World War 2 with the Field Artillery. He was a member of the Board of Water Commissioners of Kingston for five years.

The Pacemaker and Leadership Gifts Division of the Red Feather drive is already at work soliciting early gifts to the Community Chest. Many volunteers will be needed in the final phases of the campaign in order to accomplish the goal of $195,000. Eleven agencies that serve the health, education, recreation and welfare needs of the entire county are dependent upon the success of the campaign.

"As the agencies have moved forward to enlarge their programs and facilities in keeping with the needs of the area, it has been necessary to increase their budget requirements. If goals are not met, it means that the agencies will have to curtail some vitally needed service or activity," it was announced.

Lost Are Found

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The "case of the missing church members" has been solved by the Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ).

Yearbook editor Howard E. Dentler discovered that a a recorded drop of 56,000 in membership was 1,786,561, raher than the 1,749,549 reported, a drop of only 14,989.

"Thousands who were lost were found," an announcement said.

The distinguished reception committee of Harvard University searched in vain for Sir Walter Raleigh, descendant of the famous personage in English and American history, due for a course of lectures at Harvard.

Missing him at the train, the delegation searched the waiting-rooms. They espied in impressive-looking stranger, and the chairman accosted him.

Chairman — Pardon me, are you Sir Walter Raleigh?

Stranger (with emphasis.) — Thunder, no! I'm Christopher Columbus. Sir Walter is in the next room playing cards with Queen Elizabeth!

GOP Nominates Six Incumbents, Two Are Opposed

PETER M. WILLIAMS

Town Supervisor Peter M. Williams, who is also GOP majority leader on the county board, was nominated Tuesday night to run for his eighth term at a town Republican convention marked by contests for justice of the peace and councilman.

Williams, nominated by Louis P. Francello, and seconded by Nelson Burhans, was unopposed.

Incumbent Justice of the Peace William D. Brinnier won the renomination over Attorney Ernest E. Schirmer 19 to 14.

Charles Granwehr, recently appointed councilman to fill the vacancy created by the death of Vincent Kenney, was defeated 17 to 16 by Philip Breithaupt Sr.

Other incumbents who won nominations unopposed included Miss Marion Newkirk, town clerk; William R. Brown, superintendent of highways; Elden C. Myer, councilman, and Schirmer, police justice.

Robert A. Snyder, clerk of Ulster County Board of Supervisors was convention chairman, and Henry A. Lamouree, secretary.

Lamouree, Snyder and Francello were named to the committee on vacancies.

M-WC Vols Plan Chief's Night, 10th Anniversary

The 10th anniversary of Malden-West Camp Fire Company will be observed at a Chief's Night banquet scheduled in January, according to plans announced at the Tuesday night meeting of the volunteers held at Malden Fire Station.

The volunteer company embracing the two Hudson River communities north of Saugerties, was organized in 1954.

President John J. Helfert said the ladies would be invited to attend the banquet this year due to the anniversary celebration.

The anniversary committee includes Harry L. Moose, William R. Wrolsen, Ben Notarnicola, Frank Ferracane, Emmett Vedder, Harold W. Bennett, secretary; Clarence Gardner, assistant chief; Fred Pesce, and Albert J. Cawein.

Plans for a fall dance were also discussed and the entertainment committee headed by Gardner and Moose were authorized to make arrangements for the annual event.

President Helfert reported that 25 had signed up for the firemanic training sessions scheduled at Malden Fire Station for the next 12 Wednesdays, starting tonight 7:30 and excepting next Wednesday. M-WC Vols will serve refreshments following the sessions.

The company authorized the purchase of 10 banquet tables with the proceeds of a recent dance held at West Camp.

The work party meetings usually held the third Tuesday have been rescheduled to the fourth Tuesday of each month at each fire station. The drills usually held have been cancelled during the 12-week training classes.

Chief Luther Emerick reported no fires during the month and said the company participated in a search for a lost boy. The Malden fire truck was assigned to be on duty Saturday and Sunday at the North-South Skirmish to be held at the Knaust lot, Washington Avenue Extension.

A State Department of Fire Safety film on ventilation was shown on a projector operated by Allen Berzal.

Firemen's Training Scheduled Tonight

The first class of a new series in firemanic training starts 7:30 o'clock tonight at Malden Fire Station, Malden Turnpike near Route 9W.

Robert Fuhr of Stone Ridge, state firemanic instructor, will conduct the 12-weeks course. The classes are open to all Saugerties area volunteer firemen. Certificates of completion will be awarded to those attending all sessions.

The session will be held each Wednesday, except next week, Sept. 18.

DAR Hears Report On Constitutional Week, Sept. 17-23

A report on Constitutional Week was heard by Saugerties Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at the home of Mrs. William Hand, Palenville, on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Daniel Lamouree, regent, was unable to attend and Mrs. G. Nieffer, first vice regent, presided. There were 15 members present and one guest, Mrs. James Trosino of Palenville.

Village Historian Miss Pauline Hommell read the president general's message from the DAR magazine in which she urged that the Constitutional Week (Sept. 17-23) project be an outstanding endeavor.

A report on National Defense was given by Mrs. Emerson Hull assisted by Miss Hommell. It covered the Walter-McCarran Immigration and Nationality Act.

A determined assault is once more being launched against the Walter-McCarran Immigration Act. The proposed changes would abolish the "National Origins" quotas and would place discretionary power in the hands of the President, since it is recommended that "The President be authorized to reserve up to 50 per cent of the unallocated quota numbers for issuance to persons disadvantaged by the change in the quota system."

The Daughters of the American Revolution have seadfastly defended the Immigration Act as presently written.

The late Congressman Francis E. Walter once said "Few domestic problems more directly involve the future of the United States than immigration."

The House Committee on Un-American Activities has frequently pointed out that the Immigration Act is one of the main targets of communism.

If our present Immigration Act is subverted, the Communists will have accomplished their number one objective of international communism, the destruction of the immigration system of the United States, our first line of defense.

Also given in the report by Mrs. Hull and Miss Hommell was a statement by Ruth W. Walker, state chairman National Defense, and also an excerpt from Daniel Webster, "The Edifice of Constitutional Liberty."

After adjournment, members were shown colored slides taken at Mt. Vernon, Arlington National Cemetery, and Sterling Forest Gardens, which had been visited by our chapter members and guests, May 15.

After the progrem, refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Hand, assisted by Mrs. Jessie Snyder, Mrs. William Russell, Mrs. John Lowther and Mrs. Hand's guest, Mrs Trosino.

The October meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Chester Glunt, Lighthouse Drive, with Mrs. Betty Layton, Librarian at the Saugerties Library, as the speaker.

Leaves Hospital

Mrs. Richard Bradley, 26, the former Ellen Scheeder of Blue Mountain, injured in a motorcycle accident Labor Day in which her husband died, was discharged from Kingston Hospital on Tuesday. The accident occurred when the motorcycle went out of control on Route 212 near Shultis Corners, left the highway and overturned several times. He was pronounced dead at the scene. Mrs. Bradley, seated behind her husband, suffered back injuries and cuts.

Activities Scheduled

Saugerties WSCS of the Methodist Church will conduct a rummage sale Sept. 27 and 28. Details will be announced.

Lutheran Church Women of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, West Camp meet Wednesday, Sept. 18 at 7:30 p. m. in the parish hall.

Lutheran Pastor To Observe 5th Anniversary Here

REV. WALTER COWEN

Pastor of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Atonement, Market Street, Saugerties, the Rev. Walter Cowen will observe his fifth anniversary at the local church on Sunday.

He began his pastorate at Atonement, Saugerties, on September 16 when he came from Christ Lutheran Church, Rochester, where he had served for eight years. He is a graduate of Muhlenberg College, Allentown, Pa., and of Philadelphia Lutheran Seminary, Mt. Airy, Philadelphia. He was ordained at Christ Lutheran Church, Mount Vernon, in 1931 and has served parishes at Poestenkill, Red Bank, N. J. and Baisley Park, Jamaica, L. I.

During his pastorate 177 members have been received. He has officiated at 86 Baptisms, united 26 couples in marriage and conducted funeral services for 76.

In June 1961 he observed 30 years in the ministry. He has been blessed with exceptionally good health and has not missed a Sunday conducting worship during his entire ministry due to illness.

He has served for a term as vice president of the Rochester, New York Conference of the New York Synod, where he served as area evangelism campaign chairman. He has served also for more than 15 years as chairman of Lutheran World Action and Relief for the Hudson District.

From 1940 to 1944 he served as contact pastor for Lutheran service personal at Fort Monmouth and Fort Hancock, N. J., under the Service Men's Commission of the National Lutheran Council.

During his pastorate at Saugerties, the parish house exterior was painted, and the interior completely redecorated. Just completed this week is a new asphalt tile flooring in the interior: the parsonage has been repainted and four rooms redecorated: the front large window and tower windows have been releaded and covered with storm glass. New shrubbery was planted in front of the church; the brick work of the church was repaired; new sidewalk installed to the Sunday school entrance.

The Luther League was reorganized and the three women's groups of the church reorganized to become members of Lutheran Church Women, the official women's auxiliary of the Lutheran Church in America.

He is married to the former Marion Wolfe, of Freeland, Pa., who is a registered nurse, graduate of Presbyterian Hospital, Philadelphia, Pa. The couple have two children, a son, Richard Walter Cowen of Limeport, Pa., feature writer for the Allentown Call-Chronicle, Allentown, and capitol representative at Harrisburg, Pa., for that paper, and a daughter, Mrs. William A. Robinson, Fairport, N. Y.

Hunt Spreads to Germany

HAMBURG, Germany (AP) — The search for bandits in Britain's $7 million train robbery spread to Germany today after a Scotland Yard tip that they may undergo face-lifting operations here.

A spokesman of the federal criminal police headquarters in Wiesbaden confirmed that Scotland Yard cabled them that Richard Reynolds, 41, and Thomas Daly, 32, may be trying to get in touch with a plastic surgeon willing to change their faces.

Hamburg detectives were visiting scores of surgeons to tell them to be on the alert.

List Activities Of Rosary Society For Fall Season

The fall season of activities of St. Mary of the Snow Rosary Society include a Living Rosary, the annual card party and a spaghetti dinner, according to plans formulated at last week's meeting in the school cafeteria.

In honor of the feast of the Most Holy Rosary, 66 members will form a candlelight procession on the evening of Oct. 7 in the church. Any Rosarian interetsed in participating should contact Mrs. Peggy Wilsey or Mrs. Isabel DeCelle.

Oct. 23 has been set for the card party, an annual event, beginning at 8 p. m. in St. Mary's Hall. Donations of prizes should be given to Mrs. Helen Keeley and cakes to Mrs. Clara Wynne.

A spaghetti and meatball dinner complete with all the trimmings is slated for Thursday, Nov. 21 in the school cafeteria. The dinner will be open to the public with the profits realized going to help defray the cost of the Christmas flowers for the altar. Full details will be announced.

President Carolyn Parenti announced her committee chairmen for the year as follows: Refreshments, Mrs. Loretta DuVernoy; program, Mrs. Terry Nau; sick, Mrs. Eleanor Naccaratta; decorations, Mrs. Bobbie DiDomenico and Mrs. Lorraine Wagner. Mrs. Parenti reminded the members to contact Mrs. Naccarrato immediately to notify her of any ill Rosarian. A total of 63 members were remembered during the past year the chairman stated.

To date, two monthly contributions of $30 each have been sent to South Africa in support of a native catechist and his family. The Rt. Rev. Monsignor Edward Plower, moderator of the society, congratulated the 34 who have signed up for monthly pledges. He also said voluntary contributions could be given at the meetings by anyone wishing to help in this missionary endeavor. Mrs. Dot Corea, promoter, aided by Mrs. Marion Garzione, has six collectors in the various areas of Saugerties who will contact the pledgees.

Mrs. Mamie Brown was reported recuperating at home and Mrs. Helen Whitaker in Benedictine Hospital.

Mrs. Parenti informed the members of a trip to Florida sponsored by St. Catherine Laboure parish, from Nov. 9 to Nov. 16. The cost includes the round trip train transportation, 7 nights in a hotel, meals and numerous extras. Contact Mrs. Parenti for full details.

Guests present included Mrs. Joanne Kendler, Mrs. Sara Greenfeld, Mrs. Rita Keefer, Mrs. Maureen Reilly and Mrs. Betty Benjamin.

In accordance with a wish expressed on Oct. 30 during the first convening of the Ecumenical Council in Rome, the reception of Holy Communion under two species is not in the too distant future, explained the Rev. Father Daniel of the Assumptionist Fathers. Father Daniel stated that it would be reserved for certain days of fullness to help add to the religious significance of the occasion such as a wedding day, ordination or profession days.

A brief history of the reception of Communion through the centuries was outlined by Father Daniel concluding with the fact that the return of the two species is sought since it is the ideal, what Christ did, and to help make the Latin rite closer to the Eastern Church.

Christian Woman Serves Is Theme Of WSCS Session

The Christian Woman Serves in the Home, in the Community, and in the World. This was the theme of the recent September meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of Saugerties Methodist Church.

The topic was pursued through dramatization and slide projection.

Four countries of Asia will be studied by the group during 1963-1964. An Asian dinner was served by the members early in the evening. The dinner and program were in charge of the executive committee with Vice President Mrs. Ruth Transom, chairman.

During the business meeting plans for a rummage sale on Sept. 27 and 28, and for the Holiday Bazaar on Nov. 23 were outlined.

Quints Doing Fine

MARACAIBO, Venezuela (AP) —The four-day-old Prieto Quintuplet boys were reported in good health today, their future brightened by funds for their education and support.

Their mother, Mrs. Ines Marie Cuervo de Prieto, 34, was also reported improving as Venezuelans responded to her concern over how to support five new sons in a one-bedroom home on her husband's $10 a day income.

She received a letter from President Romulo Betancourt saying he had set up a group insurance policy for educating the boys.

The Caracus newspaper El Nacional established a "foundation for aid of Venezuela's quintuplets." Various firms sent gifts.

The father, an oil company foreman, received two weeks' paid vacation.

Today in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, Sept. 11, the 254th day of 1963. There are 111 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1841, disagreement over the national bank bill led to the resignation of nearly all members of President John Tyler's cabinet. Tyler's secretary of state, Daniel Webster, was the only cabinet member who refused to quit.

On this date:

In 1609, Dutch navigator Henry Hudson discovered the Island of Manhattan, on which New York City's borough of Manhattan now stands.

In 1777, Gen. George Washington's Colonial forces were defeated by the British in the Battle of Brandywine.

In 1862, short story writer William Sydney Porter, better known as O. Henry, was born in North Carolina.

In 1941, construction began on the Pentagon building in Washington, D.C.

In 1951, American Florence Chadwick became the first woman to swim the English Channel from England to France and the first woman to swim the channel in both directions.

Ten years ago. . .Cambodia appealed to 10,000 Communist-led Viet Minh rebels to leave Cambodian soil in return for a pledge of neutrality.

Five years ago. . .President Eisenhower, in a nationwide TV and radio address, warned that any appeasement of the Chinese Communists would make a major war more likely.

One year ago. . .Russia charged that President Kennedy's request for congressional authority to call up 150,000 U.S. military reservists indicated the President was preparing to commit aggression against Cuba.

Henry Is Named To Vacancy in Appellate Division

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Judge Frederic T. Henry of State Supreme Court has been chosen by Gov. Rockefeller to serve in the Appellate Division, Fourth Department.

Rockefeller named Henry Monday to fill a vacancy created by the death of Justice Philip Halpern.

Henry, a resident of Canandaigua, was elected to the Supreme Court in 1950. He has been serving on the Appellate Division in a temporary assignment.

Rockefeller also announced he had designated Justice Robert E. Noonan of Batavia to sit temporarily on the Appellate Division Bench in the Fourth Department. Noonan has been on the State Supreme Court since 1948.

The State Constitition empowers the governor to make temporary assignments when court calendars require.

Justices of the Appellate Division are paid $28,000, with expense allowances of $4,500. Supreme Court justices receive $26,000, plus $3,000 for expenses.

Barry Promises Decision

CLEVELAND (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., says he will decide before the end of the year whether to run for the Republican presidential nomination.

Goldwater told newsmen Monday: "No man can ignore the pressures I have been subjected to, nor ignore the young people urging me forward toward this honor.

"Early in January, when the New Hampshire primary comes, I'm going to have to fish or cut bait. If I enter one state primary, I'll probably enter them all."

DISCUSS ISRAEL BOND DRIVE—Members of the planning committee for the Israel Bond drive check over arrangements for this year's campaign. Pictured (l-r) are Abraham Streifer, Charles Ronder, Alfred D. Ronder, co chairman; Herman G. Rafalowsky, co-chairman and Alvin Moscowitz. Nationally, the program is called the Redemption Year program since this is the first year for redemption of matured Israel bonds. This year's goal is the sale of $75,000,000 in bonds. Persons whose bonds from 1951 are maturing should contact local committee workers for redemption of principal and interest. More than $24,500,000 in U. S. dollars will be returned to investors before Dec. 31.

Not Same Speed

BROWNS MILLS, N.J. (AP)—A motorist had better be sure of his direction when he travels on Burlington County Road 545 — the speed limit is 50 miles an hour northbound and 25 miles an hour southbound.

The split speed limit applies to a one-mile stretch of the highway bordering Ft. Dix. A spokesman for the military installation says the army has jurisdiction over half of roads bordering Ft. Dix and has posted a 25 m.p.h. speed limit on its half. The half bordering Pemberton Township is being maintained at 50 m.p.h.

That's not the only problem. Local police aren't sure whether they ought to ticket traffic violators on the military's half.

More than 130 species of flowering plants grow along the banks of the Buffalo River in Arkansas.

Reservist in Class Cited for High Average

A local Army Reservist with the 854th Engineer Battalion, First Sgt. Robert J. Bonsall Jr., of Flatbush Avenue was a recent graduate of the fifth class at Camp Drum which produced the highest average of the year.

Increased command emphasis and keen competition in the class at First U. S. Army Chemical, Biological and Radiological School at the Upstate camp helped to attain an average of 86.6 per cent.

The 46 graduates of the fifth class will join a growing nucleus of Army Reservists and National Guardsmen trained in all aspects of defensive chemical, biological and nuclear warfare. Each man returning to his home station is prepared to train a CBR team for his unit during the coming months.

Opportunity

NEW YORK (AP) — One Queens industry not only is willing to accept men and women who have epilepsy as employes —that's one of the requirements for a job with the firm. Epi-Hab, a nonprofit plant which assembles products on a subcontract basis, is manned by workers who are, with the exception of supervisors, epileptics.

Seemed Invisible Earlier in Year

JFK Problems Building Up for Almost Decade

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The problems which have suddenly piled up on President Kennedy have been accumulating, seeking solutions, for the greater part of a decade.

They just happened to land in his lap all [illegible] they seemed invisible to him earlier in the year. There are three: the limited nuclear test-ban treaty, the civil rights bill and Viet Nam.

Just a little over 10 years ago the Russians exploded their first hydrogen bomb.

Senate Looks Ready

Since then this country and Russia have set off many atomic explosions, talked of ways to end them, did stop them voluntarily for three years, resumed, and finally this summer decided to agree to stop them except underground.

At this moment, despite all the talking the United States has done to the world about wanting a suspension of tests, Kennedy cannot be absolutely positive the Senate will approve, although it probably will.

It was only nine years ago that the Supreme Court set in motion a whole series of unpredictable events by declaring public school segregation unconstitutional.

It has taken nine years to break down opposition to compliance with the court in every state, even to only a token degree. Mississippi, for instance, has had one university desegregated but no grammar school.

But it was that school decision, which said in effect segregation by its very nature is unconstitutional, that gave Negroes heart and support in demanding an end to all forms of segregation.

The result has been demonstrations, riots, and some progress. Tuesday's feeble effort at defying school desegregation in Alabama by Gov. George C. Wallace, until Kennedy federalized his National Guard, was just an annoyance.

Drama Shifts to Congress

The real drama shifts now to Congress and a fight over the civil rights bill which Kennedy offered only late in this session, and then only after he had been pushed into doing so by Negroes' militant demonstrations for civil rights.

It is also nine years since the French, learning nothing after keeping the Vietnamese people in subjection for generations, finally collapsed in their war against the Indochinese Communists and left half the country to them.

To save the rest of Indochina, now called South Viet Nam, and the rest of Southeast Asia from communism, the United States has had to help with men and supplies and money, supporting the government of President Ngo Dinh Diem.

He has run it as a dictatorship. The United States didn't get tough but just played the role of willing helper in the fight against the Reds. Ill will against Diem has been piling up in Viet Nam.

His recent repressions against Buddhists and students, rocked his hold, showed diminishing public confidence in the Diem regime. But the United States still backs him, still is afraid to get tough.

Kennedy said this week the United States must pursue a policy of patience in Viet Nam and avoid getting tough because that might collapse the government and open all Viet Nam and Southeast Asia to communism.

Ahavath Israel Installs Officers

Officers of Congregation Ahavath Israel were inducted into their two-year term during formal installation exercises Sunday night at the synagogue.

The new officers include:

Ephraim Propp, president; Morris Nussbaum, first vice-president; Robert Beckwith, second vice-president; Seymour Werbalowsky, third vice-president; Arnold Pinsly, fourth vice-president; Irving Reuben, financial secretary; Sheldon Levy, treasurer and John Szura, recording secretary.

Rabbi Jacob Rubinstein, as the installing officer, explained the Hebrew term signifying each elected office, the responsibilities of the office and then presented each officer with a humorous token of his respective duties.

Benjamin Schecter, chairman of the event, provided a program of music, short but significant talks and refreshments.

Vice President Seymour Werbalowsky, in a brief review of the previous term and recognition of its success, presented former president Harry Fertel with a silver wine cup.

The principal address was given by Aaron E. Klein, who spoke of the current renewal of interest and activity in the various Jewish organizations. President-elect Propp accepted his office with a plea for greater participation in the religious affairs of the Congregation and a sharing of the responsibilities of the operation and growth of the Synagogue.

Cantorial music was offered by Herman Shlomowitz and his sons.

The Sisterhood, notably the Mmes. Ephraim Propp, George Muller and Irving Wilpan, prepared and served salads, fruit, coffee, cake, and beverages.

GIVEN AWARD OF APPRECIATION—As a gesture of gratitude for services to Boy Scout Troop 163 West Shokan, the troop recently presented a plaque to Peter J. Naccarato, proprietor of Boiceville Inn for his fund-raising activities for the troop. Naccarato in cooperation with the troop committee sponsored a spaghetti and meatball dinner at the inn and raised $104 to be used to refinish the interior of the troop meeting rooms at West Shokan. Participating in the presentation are (l-r) Donald H. Avery, troop committee chairman; Martin H. Warnes, scoutmaster, and Naccarato. (Freeman photo)

Less Bureaucratic Plans Advised in Panama Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—Joseph S. Farland, resigning as ambassador to Panama, said today U.S. aid to Latin America would accomplish more if applied with greater concern for individual dignity and less for bureaucratic planning.

In an interview, Farland cited red tape, a lack of competent aid administration, excessive control from Washington and unduly grandiose planning among aid deficiencies he said he found in three years as U.S. envoy to Panama.

A spokesman for the Agency for International Development, which administers aid to Latin America through the Alliance for Progress program, disputed Farland's statements. He said no Panamanian aid project was undertaken "which did not have the complete and full approval of the ambassador."

Farland, 49, a Clarksburg, W. Va., native who terms himself "a liberal Republican," first entered diplomatic service as an Eisenhower administration appointee. He resigned Aug. 2 amid differences with the Kennedy administration, although he said they were not major policy differences.

Lodge Formally Asks Nhu Ouster

SAIGON (AP)— U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge has asked President Ngo Dinh Diem to oust his brother from the government and lift press censorship, a high official source said Tuesday.

Lodge told the president "it would be advisable" for his powerful brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu, to leave the country, the source said.

This was the first time the United States has formally asked for Nhu's ouster, although the State Department has said informally it would like to see him go.

Diem told The Associated Press last Thursday Lodge had not approached him on the subject.

No immediate reaction from the Saigon government was reported, but U.S. officials believed the request would be turned down.

The president has said repeatedly he regards Nhu, his political advisor, as extremely helpful.

The United States feels Nhu holds too much personal power, and objects to his methods in cracking down on Buddhists and of the government.

NEW YORK (AP)—The Rev. Dr. David M. Stowe, a former missionary in China and the Middle East and for seven years an officer of the United Church of Christ Board for World Ministries, has been named executive secretary of the Division of Foreign Missions of the National Council of Churches. This is one of the council's four major divisions.

130 Dead After Five-Day Blaze In Parana State

CURITIBA, Brazil (AP) — A forest fire ravaged drought-plagued Parana State for the fifth straight day today, leaving 64 townships razed, at least 130 persons dead, 2,000 injured and 4,000 families homeless.

Raineloads blew across the southern portion of the coffee and timber rich state, promising relief from an eight-month drought. But in western and central Parana fires fanned by strong dry winds added to the devastation.

Most of the victims were peasants who tried to fight the flames with primitive equipment and then found themselves trapped.

Reports reaching this state capital of 500,000 from hundreds of fleeing families told of scores of bodies left in makeshift morgues and scores of injured refugees crowding country hospitals.

Board Enrolls 51, Faced Court Order

NEW YORK (AP)—Faced with a contempt-of-court order, the Board of Education enrolled 51 white students Tuesday at a Brooklyn school after temporarily losing a legal battle to integrate them with Negro and Puerto Rican students at another school.

Parents of two of the white pupils had brought suit against the board. They contended that the board's plan to transfer their children to a heavily Negro-Puerto Rican school was, in effect, discrimination against whites.

The suing parents said they also represented the parents of the 49 other white children involved in the dispute.

Last Friday, State Supreme Court Justice Edward B. Baker directed the board to enroll the white children at Junior High School 285 in Brooklyn's predominantly white East Flatbush section. The board will appeal the order.

Mafia Warfare Seen

PALERMO, Sicily (AP)—Police say the bullet-riddled bodies of three rival Mafia chieftains indicate internal warfare will grow within Sicily's secret criminal society.

The bodies were found Tuesday night in fields near Palermo. Investigators said the two rival gangs apparently met by accident while trying to escape a police dragnet. The two factions opened fire on each other.

One Name Removed

CHICAGO (AP)—Police officials last week sent out a list of 143 men they said were top local criminals or their associates.

The idea was for each Chicago patrolman to become just as aware of crime syndicate hoodlums as his superiors.

The list was cut to 142 Tuesday.

Patrolman Nardo Guerrero, who directs traffic not far from police headquarters, found his own name on the list. It was hastily removed, with apologies.

IAM Will Strike United Airlines

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The International Association of Machinists announced Tuesday it would strike United Airlines on Oct. 10.

A United spokesman, who declined to be identified, said United's industrial relations office understood the IAM was also planning Oct. 10 walkouts against six other carriers; Trans World, Northwest, Braniff, Continental, Eastern and National.

A Trans World statement out of Kansas City emphatically denied any Trans World involvement in an IAM walkout.

In Washington, where the IAM has its headquarters, a spokesman said the union had no immediate comment on the situation.

In Minneapolis, near the Northwest headquarters, Arthur Pedersen, general manager of IAM District 143, said no strike vote was taken nor dates discussed but "such action is likely in the near future."

No immediate comment was forthcoming from Braniff, headquartered in Dallas; Continental, headquartered in Los Angeles; Eastern, headquartered in New York, or National, headquartered in Miami.

J.L. Reeves, president and general chairman of IAM District 141, which covers 13,000 United workers, including 5,000 in San Francisco, said each of the carriers involved was negotiating separately with the IAM.

Administration Considers It Fared Well With Wallace

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration today reviewed its role in its latest clash with Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace and decided it had fared pretty well, all things considered.

The federal government had been able to enforce court orders integrating schools in three Alabama cities without resorting to federal force.

With a bit of carefully planned paperwork — the federalizing of National Guardsmen summoned to duty earlier by Wallace himself —it was able to get the soldiers out of the picture entirely.

A government source close to the inner workings of the federal-state conflict said the drama may not be over and Wallace may uncork some new maneuver. But he made it clear the administration was highly pleased with the day's outcome — especially so because the job of maintaining peace in Birmingham, Tuskegee and Mobile was solidly in the hands of local police officers. Soldiers were nowhere in sight.

The central government had devised elaborate plans for more than a week to meet any possible Wallace move, the source said. He indicated that the avowedly segregationist governor kept the administration guessing at every turn in his battle to keep the Negroes out of the schools.

To help keep track of the diverse payments owed to the Crown, the Queen of England retains an official Remembrancer.

Five Studying Mars Trip

DENVER, Colo. (AP — A five-man expedition to Mars sometime in the 1980s is under study.

Eliot C. Payson, chief of advanced design for the Martin-Marietta Corp., said the trip to Mars would take 269 days. The space crew would remain there 455 days before returning.

"We think there is life on Mars, but it is a very primitive type," Payson said in a speech Tuesday.

DeWitt Describes Canadian Tour in Talk for Kiwanis

A vivid account of his 13-day train excursion through the Canadian Rocky Mountains this summer, was provided by Deweese DeWitt at the regular meeting of the Ulster Kiwanis Monday night at the Bridge Circle Restaurant.

DeWitt showed picture slides of his trip and gave a narration. His excursion covered Jasper National Park and glacier-formed Astoria River. All lakes in that area are green due to materials in the glacier, he said. DeWitt also described seeing the whiskey jack bird, a rarely-seen bird which is related to the blue jay. He also described the Columbia Ice Flats, Yoho National Park and Mount Eisenhower. The last-named is a mountain dedicated to the former president and general of the Army by Canada in honor of Eisenhower.

Interclub members attending included Clarence Ford, president, Francis Remey, interclub chairman, Thomas Monahan and Richard Sopkie, of the Minisink Valley Kiwanis, and Arnie Aho, Michael Aronica, Robert Ronder and Joseph Stout, of Kingston Kiwanis. Stout is a 29-year, perfect-attendance member of that club.

William Stall, director of the Community Chest, requested the aid of the Ulster Kiwanis in this year's fund drive.

It was announced that the Little League baseball trophy is ready for presentation to the Ulster Kiwanis Yankees champions of 1963, the second year of rotation.

Next week's program will be presented by Mrs. David Ennis, who will discuss "Ulster County's Community Chest."

21,000 Household Employers Must File Wage Reports

During the past year, almost 21,000 "delinquent" household employers were required to make back reports of wages they had paid to cleaning women, maids, and other household help after their employes, or ex-employes applied for social security benefits.

Based on the average of $1000 in wages covered by these delinquent reports, the Internal Revenue Service will be collecting about $1,200,000 in back social security taxes from these 21,000 employers, plus interest and penalty, said George J. Habernig social security district manager.

Must Pay Both

Since the law holds the employer responsible for making the reports and paying the social security taxes due, the delinquent employer is liable for paying both the employer's and employes share of the back taxes. There is no time limit if no report was filed, he pointed out.

About 18½ million men, women, and children are now receiving social security benefit checks each month, Habering said, and about three million persons apply for old-age, survivors, or disability benefits each year. The average household worker therefore probably knows someone who is getting social security payments and is thus likely to file claim when she reaches retirement age or has to stop working because of disability.

If wages she has earned in household work covered by the social security law have not been reported to her social security account, the employer will be required, first, to make the report of wages, and second, to pay the delinquent taxes to the Internal Revenue Service.

A delinquent employer may also be discovered if the employe at any time asks the Social Security Administration for a statement of the earnings credited to her social security account and finds upon receiving it that some wages are missing from her record.

$50 Is Guide

A household worker who is paid $50 or more cash wages over a three-month period by any employer is covered by social security. This means that the employer must report her wages and pay the social security taxes due—3⅝ per cent she has deducted from the employes wages, and 3⅝ per cent out of her own pocket.

Since there are 13 weeks in each three-month calender quarter of the year, a household worker who is paid as little as $4 each week will have cash wages totalling more than $50 in a calendar quarter, Habernig pointed out, and by law those wages must be reported. This situation often applies to the family's "baby-sitter."

Household employers make their social security reports on a special simplified form printed on the inside of a self-mailer envelope. An employer can get on the mailing list to receive the form every three months by writing to the District Director of Internal Revenue in Albany, or by asking the nearest social security district office for a copy of the booklet, "Social Security and Your Household Employee." This little booklet of information for household employers contains a postcard the employer can send to the District Director of Internal Revenue to get on the mailing list for the report forms.

The reports and social security tax payments are due within one month after the end of a calendar-quarter. Reports of wages paid to household help in July, August, and September must be made on or before October 31, for example.

Household workers who would like to know more about social security should get in touch with the nearest social security district office. The Social Security office for Ulster and Greene County residents is located at 57 Albany Avenue, Kingston.

Johannesburg, largest city below the Sahara, bears several names. God-fearing Boers call it Duiwelstad, Devil City. Africans call it e-Goli, the City of Gold.

Olive Town Gets Lower Rates for Auto Insurance

During a regular meeting of Olive Memorial Post 1627, American Legion, held June 6, 1960, a resolution was drafted by the then post commander. Major H. Edgar Timmerman, and unanimously passed, requesting a readjustment in auto insurance rates for Olive township.

It was learned this week that the request had been granted and a reduction in insurance rates for Olive is being allowed by the State Board of Casualty Underwriters. The new rates for new business began last July 1, and the new rates for renewals began Sept. 1. The reduction is not retroactive.

The request for readjustment by the Legion post was based on the fact that some time in the past a rate map was drawn that included the Town of Olive, although it is a rural community, with the City of Kingston. This same map classed the towns of Woodstock and Shandaken as rural communities and they always have enjoyed the lower rates.

Copies of the Legion resolution were sent to the Olive Town Board (which approved it); the state superintendent of insurance; Gov. Rockefeller, State Senator E. Ogden Bush and State Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson.

Although the exact amount of reduction on a percentage basis is not available a sample policy and reduction was obtained from the offices of Tremper, Gaffken & McEntee, Inc., of Kingston.

For instance: a basic 10-20 liability feature premium is reduced from $53.68 to $48.40; $5000 property damage from $15.30 to $14, and $500 medical coverage from $7 to $6, a total saving of $7.85, it was pointed out.

Re, Son Sentenced, Fined in Stock Fraud

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal judge sentenced Gerardo A. Re and his son, Gerard, to six months imprisonment Tuesday for stock fraud and fined them $15,000 each.

Judge Dudley B. Bonsal, in imposing sentence, continued them free on bail pending appeal.

The father and son were convicted July 11 with three other defendants.

They were charged with conspiring to violate federal securities laws in connection with the sale of more than a million unregistered shares of the common stock of the Swan-Finch Oil Corp. between 1954 and 1957.

The prosecution contended that the public was defrauded of more than $5 million.

Congress is considering legislation that would place about 50 million acres—already under federal jurisdiction — in a far-flung wilderness system.

Car Stolen 2nd Time

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Last February thieves stole a car parked by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Nichols in front of their home.

The car was found Aug. 24 in Los Angeles, and Nichols went for it last week. He washed it, bought new tires and filled the gas tank.

Last weekend the car was stolen again — from the same spot in front of their home.

"If they had waited on more day, we would have had the car waxed, too," Mrs. Nichols said.

FREEMAN ADS BRING RESULTS

For Better Grades

Organize and Study

By The Reading Laboratory, Inc.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Let's set the stage for this article. You're home and ready to study. You have a page of main-idea lecture notes from the morning's class. You have a textbook open to the chapter that applies to the lecture. You have a clean notebook and a pencil . You're alert, bright-eyed, bushy-tailed and rarin' to get started. So what do you do?

You could give it all up as a bad job and watch television, but that would be the coward's way out.

Or you could combine your lecture notes and the textbook chapter into a single, coherent outline. Making outlines is sometimes more work than watching television, but always results in better grades.

In the long run, working from outlines is far less work than any other method of studying. When tests roll around, you need only study your notebook. If there's anything in your outline that doesn't make sense, you can always refer to your text. But you'll never have to read the whole textbook through. And if you outline what you're supposed to know, you'll be sure of knowing it.

Here's a step-by-step procedure for integrating your lecture notes with your textbook:

Overlook the pertinent chapter before the lecture.

Take lecture notes on main ideas, or on little tidbits that the teacher is particularly fond of. Take notes only on material that is not in the text.

Reread lecture notes that evening.

Resurvey text—again just for the main idea.

Begin a main idea outline that combines the lecture and text notes. Don't be afraid of mixing the two together.

After starting the outline, begin to "survey and resurvey" the textbook chapter to find the subordinate ideas and consolidate your grasp of the main ideas. Read the bold print, the maps, the graphs, the first sentence of each paragraph. Then skim through the body of the text, starring the important secondary ideas. It's best to make marginal notes; for example, "/" for an important idea, "//" for a very important one, and "///" for absolutely crucial ideas).

Incorporate the starred ideas into your outline—put them into their proper places under the main ideas you noted from the lecture and the textbook.

The beauty of this system is that you have to study a chapter only once. Once you've constructed a running outline of the lectures and the textbook, the subject matter is yours. There'll be no frantic cramming before a test; you'll have to look through only your notebook. The amount of reading time you'll save will be enormous.

Outlining will be a fairly easy job if you follow two simple rules: use key words instead of long, windy sentences; don't try to put every little detail in your outline.

In other words, keep your outlines as short as possible. Don't spend hours rewriting the textbook. Your outlines should be a memory cue that will help you remember the material. Short, quick, to-the-point, outlines are the easiest to make, the easiest to study and the most useful.

NEW YORK (AP)—The price of silver on the open market in New York has risen to the official U.S. Treasury level of $1.293 an ounce.

There is less than an ounce of that metal in the silver dollar. And until now the dollar could buy more than could the metal in it if melted down.

Demand Forces Price Up

The cost of getting the silver into a form fabricators can use makes it still unprofitable to melt down silver dollars.

Strong world demand for silver has forced the price up in recent months. In London Monday, the price rose to a new high of $1.299 an ounce.

The cost of getting the silver from New York to London makes it unlikely that any metal in the U.S. market will be exported just now. And industrial demand here is strong.

Silver dealers say that the large supply held by the U.S. Treasury, some 1.7 billion ounces, should keep the market price from going appreciably higher.

Part of the U.S. official hoard is used as backing for $1 bills, although this will gradually be freed. Part of it is being used by U.S. mints to turn out much-needed silver, coins, of which there is a shortage due to an expanding economy and increased use of vending machines and turnstiles.

Paying Over Premium

But the supply that American silver users could tap at the new high price is so large that dealers are betting that a price ceiling has been reached here, at least for a time.

Foreign buyers, however, are so anxious to get more of the metal that Handy & Harman, New York fabricator and refiner, reports that some are paying premiums over the $1.293 price reached here Monday.

World consumption has been running well above mine output. Demand for silver coins has increased in many other nations also.

Prosperity in this and other lands has boosted sales of household and other objects made of silver. But above all, the big upward push has come from industry, especially electronics and makers of space age devices.

Fiancee Sat Alone at Table While He Talked to Friends

Q: My fiancee and I had dinner in a restaurant the other evening and while we were waiting to be served, I recognized an old friend of mine and his wife seated at another table. I hadn't seen them in a long time so I asked my fiancee to excuse me and I went over to their table and had a chat with them. When I returned to our table, my fiancee was very perturbed because I had left her sitting alone and she thinks I was very discourteous to her. Will you please tell me if I was wrong

A: If you merely went over to their table to say "hello," there was nothing wrong in what you did, but if you left your fiancee sitting alone for any length of time, you were discourteous to her.

Calling Husband's Friends By First Name

Q: When my husband introduces me to business associates of his whom he calls by first name, should I proceed to call them by first name too or should I call them Mr. Smith, Mr. Jones, etc. My husband says it sounds very snobby for me to call them Mr. when he calls them by first name. I think the opposite and that they will think me forward if I call them Jim or Henry. Will you please settle this difference of opinion?

A: I agree with you. You should call these men Mister at least until they ask you to call them by their first names.

Enclosing Visiting Cards with Gifts

Q: When enclosing a visiting card with a gift, should it be put in an envelope or not?

A: If sent from a store your card should be put into its envelope, which you both address and seal. When sending a present that has been wrapped by yourself, you seldom — if ever —enclose your card in an envelope.

The Mature Parent

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Mistake? What's That?

Last week on his way downtown with his 11-year-old boy, Mr. B drove through a red light. Waved to the curb by a traffic cop, he said jovvially, "Sorry I goofed, officer. I thought I could make it. I thought the green was with me."

Do you "goof" — or do you make real mistakes?

What a comfortable little coinage is this new word "goof." How indulgently it describes our mistakes and shortcomings. How smoothly it passed Mr. B over the fact that he had deliberately violated a traffic regulation in the hope that he could get away with it. How slyly it invited the other fellow to agree that his mistake was harmless.

An intelligent child, Mr. B's son knows how to latch on to a good thing. Tonight he "goofed," too. Asked if he had mailed an important letter he had been commissioned to, he said jovially, "No, I forgot it, I left it over at Bunk's house. Sorry I goofed. Gosh, I don't have to go back and get it, do I?"

So comfy it must be to "goof" instead of making mistakes you have to look at and try to put right! Only it's going to work both ways, you know. If no wrong we do is ever going to be serious enough to be called wrong again, we can't complain if the kids invite us to laugh at their shortcomings. If they want to use the word "goof" to describe their carlessness with important letters, their refusals to get home on time, their neglect of homework, there's nothing we can do about it.

How come we've concocted this little duck-out word? Are we really so ashamed of our failures that we must insist that they don't matter?

Human shortcomings DO matter — plenty. Human panic can blow this world to pieces. Human envy can pile misjudgments on us until it succeeds in disposing of us by sending us to a madhouse. Human hypocrisy can infect your grandchildren. Human pride can dispossess you of love.

I bet popularized psychology is responsible for this word "goof" and that other happy-go-lucky line, "What do you want from me? Nobody's perfect."

Well, I'm here to say that no psychologist I know (and I know a lot of them) relieves you of guilt for your shortcomings to encourage you to indulge them. They relieve you of guilt so you can look at shortcomings and start to outgrow them.

The Shawangunk Garden Club of Ellenville has announced the date of their annual flower show is Friday, Sept. 13. It will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sprague, on Leurenkill Road, Ellenville.

Theme of the show, "At Home and Abroad," allows for great variety in the arrangement classes with oriental arrangements in the class, "East to West by Jet," the class "Breakfast Abroad" displayed on a tea wagon, or "Grand Tour" demanding an imported container, and "Sentimental Journey" appropriately named for the dried flower arrangement. Home is featured in "Southern Comfort," an interesting class which requires a "pair arrangement" and "Country Cottage," a fruit, flower and vegetable combination. A display in the horticultural classes has been planned with Mrs. Chandler Young as chairman.

Mr. and Mrs. Sprague's home, set in a grove of trees and overlooking the Shawangunk Mountains across the broad lawn, will serve as background for these arrangements.

Mrs. Henry Fazzano and Miss Helen Van Woort are co-chairmen of the show. The committee is composed of Mrs. Guy Davenport, schedule; Mrs. Sidney Delaney, artistic; Mrs. Donald Sprague, classification; Mrs. John Lathrop, judges; Mrs. James Murray, tickets; Mrs. Donald Downs, publicity; Mrs. Walter Kilduff, staging; Miss Mabel Wilklow, Miss Anna Henninger, Mrs. Lloyd Wilklow, entries; Mrs. Sherman Loucks, hostesses; and Mrs. Alton B. Hourin, refreshments.

The show will be continuous from 2-9 p. m. and is a judged show. The public is invited and all Garden Club members have tickets available. Tickets will also be sold at the door.

Rusk Pinpoints Area for Talks With Soviet Union

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk says he hopes it will be possible to reach agreements with the Soviet Union "on safeguards against war by accident, miscalculation or surprise attack."

In a speech before the national American Legion convention Tuesday night, Rusk also set down more than a half dozen other areas in which he said agreements with Russia might be made.

"In seeking understandings with the Soviet Union," Rusk said, "we do not expect to effect a miraculous change in Soviet intentions toward us. Our intention is to keep the conflict within tolerable bounds—to defend and build freedom without a thermonuclear holocaust."

Besides safeguards against an unintended nuclear war, Rusk said, "we favor also, though this will be more difficult to achieve, a slowing down of actual arms production and reductions in existing levels of armaments—with adequate inspection."

Other areas marked for possible future discussions with the Soviet Union were easing of the crisis in Berlin, strengthening of the peace-making power of the United Nations, a greater flow of information and people between the West and the Communist world, joint undertakings against disease and the hazards of nature and pooled efforts in scientific fields.

Principal Arrests Three Negroes for Malverne Sit-In

MALVERNE, N.Y. (AP) — A school principal made a citizen's arrest of three Negroes who staged a sit-in Tuesday night at Malverne Junior High School. The arrests came after a board of education meeting at the school broke up when a civil rights group started singing freedom songs.

The board is under orders from the state to end racial imbalance in the Malverne school district, which takes in three Long Island communities. Civil rights groups are protesting the board's failure to act.

The board says it can't act because of a court restraining order obtained by white parents. The parents contend ending racial imbalance would force some children to attend schools outside their neighborhoods.

The white parents' test case is to be heard Friday in State Supreme Court at Albany.

Twenty persons have been arrested in the integration dispute since schools opened last week.

Police said Principal Clement Wolfe made the citizen's arrest Tuesday night.

Charged with loitering were Frank Martin and Odessa Mitchell, both of Lakeview, and Floyd Hazel, Lakeview chapter president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

The Woodfield Road School in the Lakeview section is about 81 per cent Negro. The Davison Avenue School in Lynbrook and the Lindner Place School in Malverne are predominantly white.

Negro pupils have been boycotting the Woodfield Road School, and since Monday many of them have been attending a "freedom school" set up in a church.

Studies Controls Over Individuals' Drinking Habits

NEW YORK (AP) — A state commission surveying the liquor control law is studying the possibility of state controls over the drinking habits of individuals.

Lawrence E. Walsh, chairman of the commission, says it was not now committed to any individual controls.

Walsh, a former federal judge, also said Tuesday in an interview:

"We do not know whether any form of direct control on the individual is workable or desirable in New York.

"We mean to find out what the relation is between the consumption of alcohol and traffic accidents, public relief costs, and broken homes and other social evils. We will then try to find the best ways of meeting these problems."

The commission, appointed by Gov. Rockefeller, will open hearings here next month on proposed revisions of the alcoholic beverage control law. Most of the emphasis so far has been on control of various kinds of liquor outlets.

Enters Guilty Plea

Tuesday afternoon Vernor O. Baker, charged with criminally buying and receiving stolen property and criminally concealing and withholding stolen property, entered a plea of guilty to criminally buying and receiving stolen property as a misdemeanor. Michael Nardone appeared for defendant. Imposition of sentence was postponed by County Judge Raymond J. Mino until September 30 at 2 p. m. The case had been marked ready for trial by District Attorney David W. Corwin.

Broome Indicts 3 For 'Lover's Lane' Kidnapping, Attack

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP) — Three men were under indictment today on charges including kidnapping, assault, robbery and rape in connection with the alleged kidnapping of two couples from a lover's lane.

The men, Peter J. Laskaris, 22, and Charles Rifenbery, 25, and William Egli, 22, are currently awaiting sentence in Pennsylvania on a burglary conviction. Laskaris and Rifenbery are from nearby Johnson City. Egli is from Binghamton.

The Broome County Grand Jury returned the indictments Tuesday.

Dist. Atty. Stephen Smyk said the men would be extradited to New York State to face trial.

Smyk said the men allegedly kidnapped Edward J. Guido of Johnson City and Mary J. Carlin, 31, of Binghamton, at gunpoint on July 28. The incident occurred, Smyk said, at a secluded lane in the city.

Guido and Miss Carlin escaped when their captors stopped at a drive-in. Miss Carlin was shot in the head but recovered.

Smyk said the trio allegedly held up another couple at the same lane and forced them to take a drive. The girl was raped during the ride, the district attorney said.

The men were picked up the following day in Montrose, Pa., in connection with the burglary of a gas station in Laynesboro, Pa.

The indictments accuse each of four counts of first-degree kidnapping, two counts of first and second-degree assault, one count of rape, two counts of second-degree robbery and two counts of illegal possession of firearms.

Dog Bite Is Fatal

ROME (AP) — A British ballet student died early Tuesday in a Rome hospital of rabies from a dog bite in the face.

Diana Celia Hall, 12, of Bradford, was bitten at the ballet academy of the Roma Opera Theater on Aug. 23 by a black police dog known to all students at the school.

The dog was found to be rabid and was destroyed. Diana was given anti-rabies injections. Doctors said the treatment often is ineffective when someone has been bitten in the upper areas of the body, from where the rabies virus can travel more quickly to the central nervous system.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)— Some television experts are fretting about the unusual title of Imogene Coca's new comedy series, "Grindl." They find it hard to pronounce and they wonder if there isn't a chance it will be confused with "Glynis," a very different comedy series on a rival network.

That doesn't bother Miss Coca much in these days before her first plunge into television situation comedy, the series which has its premiere on NBC next Sunday evening.

"With my own name, how on earth can I worry about 'Grindl'?" the comedienne asked. "People are always having trouble with Imogene — probably most people call it Eye-mo-jean, and Coca gets mixed up with cocoa. And then they settle for what's-her-name.'"

Imogene chuckles over one affectionate fan letter addressed to "Emma Jean Kosher." She received her first name from a maternal grandmother and made several efforts to change it when she got into show business.

When recognition came, it was as Imogene Coca in "New Faces of 1934," a Broadway revue. Eventually she became America's favorite comedienne in the wonderful "Your Show of Shows" with Sid Caesar that started on NBC television in 1950.

As Grindl, she'll play a naive, well-intentioned itinerant worker who stumbles into comedy situations.

Still another doctor arrives on the television screens this month —Dr. Richard Kimble. He won't be a dedicated, white-coated healer but an innocent man, convicted of murder. David Janssen, once the jaunty private eye, Richard Diamond, will play the part of this haunted medico in an action series, "The Fugitive," a new ABC entry starting next Tuesday.

That brings the medical content of evening television up to nine practitioners, a larger group than its lawyers, cops or cowboys.

Prospects Are Bright for Rondout Valley Football Squad

Many Vets Back As Ganders Hope For Improvement

Rondout Valley appears headed for better days in football. From last year's club, which had the first losing season at the school since 11-man football was introduced, coach John (Chick) Meehan has a host of performers returning. He feels they will enable the team to better last year's 3-5 mark.

Seniors back for more action are quarterback Don Parete, end Pete Green, halfback John Brush and tackle Al Shaw. Juniors include halfback Bob Claire, ends Robert Markle and Cliff Schoonmaker and linemen Len Black and Fred Parisi. Jerry Craig, a second team all-league choice in 1962 and inactive last season because of a back injury, is ready for action this time around.

Vacancies due to graduation cost the Ganders only Bob Barnum, an all-league choice at end; guard Tom Sims, center Paul Traficanti, tackle Larry Napoli and reserve quarterback and defensive halfback Alan Makowsky. Fran Turco, a regular fullback last year, has enrolled at Kent Prep while Tom Snow, an end; John Neilson, a reserve halfback and Joseph Weber, left halfback, have moved from the school district. Sophomore Art Jackson, a possibility as starting quarterback, broke his leg playing baseball and is not a grid candidate.

Despite the loss of the top performers, the candidates have looked good in practice sessions. "It's pleasure to coach a group like we have out for football. They are really working hard to put out a team that will be a representative of past Rondout Valley squads," coach Meehan said.

Other Prospects

In addition to the returning veterans, promising candidates include backs Bob Anderson, Robert Backer, Greg DeWitt, Joe Shields; ends Garry Ostrander and Tom Teleger; linemen Donald Dona, Dennis Lee, Les LaBuda, Eric Johnson, Don Rhinequist and Pat Wright and centers Jeff Hartman Jr. and Chet Broadhead.

The Ganders will play on their new field at the Junior-Senior high school for the first time. The gridiron is off Route 209, about three miles south of Stone Ridge.

Aiding Meehan on the coaching staff are John Millien, end coach; Larry Skalla, back coach.

The schedule:

Tournament Control

KBA Adopts ABC Procedure On Rating Tourney Bowlers

Kingston Bowling Association has adopted a new directive by the American Bowling Congress dealing with the highly controversial subject of regular and post-season tournament averages for individuals.

At its last national convention, the American Bowling Congress adopted a standard procedure to deal with the problem of re-rating bowlers' averages for tournament competition.

The directive places the authority with the executive committee of the local bowling associations to do all the re-rating when a bowlers average warrants it.

Bowlers with an average of 10 or more points over the previous full season would come under this re-rating regulation. Cutoff date for current averages will be January 1 in the future.

In recent years the practice of tournaments to accept averages as of the last bowling season came under heavy fire. In some instances bowlers had advanced as much as 30 to 40 points between their last season and current tournaments, making a mockery of the events. In some cases, bowling proprietors rejected entries that were suspect.

Mounting criticism across the country against the "last season" policy brought the matter before the ABC's annual convention this spring and the new directive was the result.

KBA president Philip Battaglia hailed the move as a great step forward for bowling tournaments.

Name Charles Forst

In other action at the monthly meeting last night, Battaglia appointed first vice president Charles Forst tournament manager for 1964.

The executive committee voted to hold a special meeting next Tuesday when the bowling proprietors or their representatives will be invited at which time establishments will be designated and dates assigned for the 1964 association championships.

Joseph Mannello was appointed tournament secretary for the third consecutive year. Also named to the tournament committee were William Mohr and Albert Sonnenberg of Kingston; William Einekel of College Lanes, New Paltz; and Henry Meigel of Chalet Lanes in Rosendale.

Battaglia also appointed committee chairmen for the 1963-64 KBA executive committee by naming William Einekel to head the Auditing committee; Raymond Bellows as Awards chairman and Albert Sonnenberg as publicity and public relations chairman for the second year.

Workshop Planned

Richard Waltman, association secretary, announced that arrangements have been made to bring Robert Lynch, Eastern field representative of the American Bowling Congress to Kingston on October 8 to conduct a workshop for all league presidents and secretaries in the Kingston Bowling Association.

The work session is being widely acclaimed throughout the country to properly educate these key bowling league officials of their responsibilities and current procedures as well as familiarizing them with the new rules in the 10-pin game. The workshop session will start at 8 p. m. immediately following an abbreviated executive committee meeting.

Sikes, Harris Are Contenders In 63rd Amateur

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—The 63rd U.S. Amateur Golf championship moves into two 18-hole rounds of play today that trim the original field of 200 to 16.

Among the top contenders over the 6,896-yard par 36-36—72 Wakonda Club course are Dick Sikes, former National Public Links titlist and current NCAA champion from the University of Arkansas, in the third quarter of the draw along with Billy Joe Patton, West Virginians Bill Campbell and Ed Tutwiler, and two collegians — Bob Greenwood of North Texas State and Jimmy Jewell of Indiana.

Defending champion Labron Harris Jr. of Enid, Okla., heads the second bracket of the draw that also has 1960 champion Deane Beman, and three tough St. Louis players—Jim Tom Blair, Bob Cochran and Jim Jackson.

In the first bracket are George Archer, a 6-foot-6 apprentice cowpoke from Gilroy, Calif., who eliminated 1962 runner-up Downing Gray 4 and 3 Tuesday; NCAA runner-up John Lotz, a 1 up winner over former Walker Cupper Bob Gardner of Essex Fells, N.J.; and Steve Spray, the hometown favorite and small college champion at East New Mexico University the last two years.

Charlie Coe, winner in 1949 and 1958, rules the fourth quarter, where upsets hit with the suddenness of the sun through the early rain and fog on Tuesday. Falling to the sidelines were Homero Blancas, a 5 and 3 loser to Henry Timbrook, a California real estate man; 1962 British Amateur champ Dick Davies of Pasadena, Calif., spilled in a late rally by burly Ross Mitchell of Lubbock, Tex.; and talented, young George Boutell of Phoenix, a 2 and 1 loser to Fred Gordon, a 50-year-old owner of a greenhouse at Belmond, Iowa.

Snyder Captures Delahanty Golf

Billy Snyder, 18-year-old Hudson Valley Community College student, carded a one-over par 72 at Troy Country Club Tuesday to win the Eastern New York Golf Association's annual Ray Delahant Memorial Trophy championship.

The youthful Troy ace rammed home a 15-foot birdie putt on the 18th green to gain a one stroke edge over Michael Rakvica of Ballston Spa CC, who also birdied the final hole. Snyder put together a pair of 36's for his winning effort. Rakvica was out in 37 and back in 36.

George Cosenza of Wiltwyck Country Club qualified for a net prize with a 77-7-70 in the Class A division.

Tied at 74 were John Moynihan, Troy CC, with 37-37; Dick Sauers, Pinehaven, 38-36; and Don Gary, Ballston, 36-38.

Warren Zimmer, Hoosick Falls, won Class B with 78 and E. Kennedy, Mechanicville, paced the C contingent with 93.

Perry Released By San Francisco

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Old Joe Perry, who broke into pro football when Casey Stengel was managing at Oakland and Bob Cousy was a kid in college, is looking for a job.

The tough, 200-pound fullback who gouged almost five miles out of opposing National Football League lines, was placed on waivers Tuesday as the Baltimore Colts cut back to a mandatory 37-man roster limit for this weekend's opening games.

Perry, 36, was the all-league fullback in 1953 and 1954 when he led the NFL in rushing. He got into 11 games and carried 94 times for 359 yards for the Colts last season.

The Colts acquired another veteran in place-kicking specialist Jim Martin, who was picked up from Detroit in a trade for a high draft choice.

Other veterans involved in last-day maneuvering included long-time Canadian quarterback Sam Etcheverry, signed by the San Francisco 49ers; San Francisco guard Mike Magac, placed on the injured waiver list; and Dallas defensive back Jerry Norton and fullback Mal Hammack, and Philadelphia tackle Jim McCusker, all placed on waivers.

Most of the other players involved in the final cuts were rookies or second-year men. The defending champion Green Bay Packers asked waivers on rookie linebacker Tony Liscio and linebacker Ed Holler.

Johnny Edmond making his initial drive aboard Princess Gilmon, reined the chestnut filly to a 2:09.3 victory in the opening race—a one-mile ICO for two year-olds. Miss Abbedell was worth prices of $10.50 and $6.50 while My Son's Gleeson got home third for a $4.60 return.

PITCHING—Bob Gibson, Cardinals, shut out Chicago Cubs 8-0 on six hits, also hit three-run homer as second-place St. Louis won 13th in 14 games and remained three games behind National League leading Los Angeles.

BATTING—Wally Moon, Dodgers, hit two-run seventh inning homer that proved decisive in 4-2 triumph over Pittsburgh that kept Dodgers lead at three games over Cardinals.

Bo Belinsky an Angel Again; Musial, Koufax in Spotlight

Stan Wallops 474th Home Run; Sandy Wins 23rd

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The remarkable Stan Musial set another major league record; Most home runs by a new grandfather, 1. And the St. Louis Cardinals kept charging on.

The incredible Sandy Koufax broke his own National League strikeout mark. And the Los Angeles Dodgers stayed three games in front of the Cardinals in the National League pennant race.

Musial was up most of the night waiting for the birth of his first grandchild, then smacked a two-run homer as the Cardinals defeated the Chicago Cubs 8-0 Tuesday night for their 13th victory in 14 games.

Koufax won his 23rd game against only five losses, and he struck out nine Pittsburgh Pirates in a 4-2 victory. That gave him 276 strikeouts for the season. His old record was 269 in 1961.

The third-place Milwaukee Braves fell eight games off the pace, losing 4-3 to Cincinnati. In other NL action, the New York Mets whipped the San Francisco Giants 4-2 and the Philadelphia Phillies slugged the Houston Colts 16-0.

Aids Gibson Win

Musial's first inning homer was all Bob Gibson needed to record his 17th victory. It followed a single by Dick Groat, just restored to the line-up after an injury, and was Musial's 11th of the year and 474th of his career.

Wally Moon hit a two-run homer in the seventh for the Dodgers to run the score to 4-0. The Pirates got their first run in the bottom of the seventh with the help of an error. Bob Clemente hit a solo homer in the eighth for the Pirates.

Hank Aaron hit his 40th and 41st home runs—tops in the majors—for the Braves, but it wasn't enough. Johnny Edwards homered for the Reds and Gordy Coleman, who also drove in a run with a double, broke a 2-2 tie with a homer in the fourth inning.

Carl Willey won his ninth game for the Mets and his third of the year over the Giants. He was working on his fifth shutout in the ninth, but Willie McCovey and Orlando Cepeda ruined it with solo homers.

The Giants set a major league mark of their own when they used three Alous in the eighth inning. The Alou brothers, Jesus, Matty and Felipe, went down 1-2-3, the first two as pinch hitters. Felipe was right fielder in the line-up.

Don Nottebart had pitched a no-hitter when he met the Phils in Houston last May 17, but he only got three men out Tuesday night. Johnny Callison collected a homer, double and two singles to pace the 17-hit attack for the Phils and the Colts contributed six errors. Chris Short pitched the shutout, a four-hitter.

Plastic Slope Is Slated at Hunter

A unique 30,000 square foot skiing surface, made of a new-type plastic composition, will be opened for the public on Saturday, September 14th, at Hunter Mountain Ski Bowl, Hunter, New York.

The plastic-surfaced ski slope, created by Gene Gillis, well-known ski area management consultant, was tested for the press and professional skiers last weekend, and proved to be such a success, that area Manager Orville Slutzky immediately set plans for increasing the size of the slope, and opening it to the public.

The new slope, which will have a 300 foot vertical descent, will be over twelve hundred feet long, and will be serviced by a double chairlift. There will be a combination of trail and slope, as well as a level area for teaching.

First Anywhere

The plastic ski slope, which will be available to the public and to ski clubs for the first time anywhere, is the fore-runner of a nationwide chain of Sun-Schuss slopes. "The new facility," explained General Manager Slutzky, "is an ideal teaching surface, and is particularly valuable for pre-season ski-conditioning. It will help skiers, beginners and experts alike, get into better condition for the vigorous skiing ahead on our slopes and trails this winter. The plastic slope facilities will be available at moderate cost to the general public from now until the snow flies, and will also be available on an exclusive basis to ski clubs, provided they arrange appointments with us."

The Hunter Mountain Ski Bowl, which begins its fifth season this year, has also recently completed a major expansion of slopes, trails and all areas.

Is Knocked Out As Team Wins; Yankees Bow, 2-0

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bo Belinsky is back among the Angels.

They didn't carry him off the field at Los Angeles with leis dripping from his shoulders Tuesday night, but then he wasn't around when the Angels finally defeated Boston 6-5 in 10 innings.

Belinsky left in the ninth inning when the Red Sox started to connect. He allowed eight hits, struck out four and walked none before he left.

Belinsky, who pitched a no-hitter for Los Angeles last year, was farmed out to Hawaii after compiling a 1-7 record, a 6.39 earned run average and a remarkable record for getting into trouble. He won four of five decisions with Hawaii.

The Kansas City Athletics knocked off the first-place New York Yankees for the second night in a row, 2-0. Minnesota regained second place as Bob Allison hit two homers in a 5-4 decision over Minnesota, Baltimore knocked Chicago into third by beating the White Sox 2-1 and Detroit and Washington split. The Senators won 9-8 before the Tigers took the nightcap 4-1.

Blows 5-1 Lead

Belinsky went into the ninth with a 5-1 lead, having allowed only six hits—one Dick Stuart's 38th homer that gave him the AL lead in that department. But when the first two men bopped Bo for singles, he was relieved. The Red Sox then pushed across four runs to tie it. The Angels won in the 10th when Lee Thomas cracked a bases-loaded single.

The Yankees' Ralph Terry, 16-14, and Diego Segui of the A's, were locked in a scoreless battle until the eighth when Charley Lau rapped a two-run double. Segui, who had allowed only a fifth-inning single by Elston Howard until the eighth, needed relief help from Ted Bowsfield and John Wyatt before he won it.

The Twins came from behind as Allison slammed a pair of two-run homers, his 34th and 35th of the season. Gerry Arrigo, recently recalled from the minors, shut out the Indians over the final five innings for his first major league victory.

Catcher John Orsino collected a single, double and triple as the Orioles edged the White Sox. Milt Pappas pitched the first six innings but left when his arm stiffened and Dick Hall and Stu Miller finished up.

Minnie Minoso batted in three runs for the Senators in the opener, including the winning run in the eighth inning. Bubba Phillips homered for the Tigers in the nightcap. Phillips and Norm Cash, who homered for Detroit in the opener, each had five hits for the doubleheader.

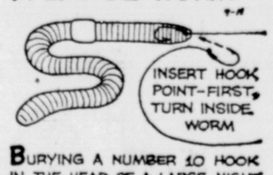
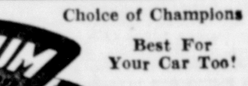
BURYING HOOK IN A LARGE WORM



BURYING A NUMBER 10 HOOK IN THE HEAD OF A LARGE NIGHT CRAWLER WILL SNAG LESS THAN HOOK POINT-EXPOSED RIGGING, AND THE HOOK DOESN'T TEAR OUT EASILY IF CAST GENTLY--ONE DISADVANTAGE IS MISSING FISH THAT STRIKE SHORT. GIVE FISH AMPLE TIME TO SWALLOW ENTIRE WORM BEFORE SETTING THE HOOK. THIS RIG IS USED IN TROLLING (SLOWLY) OR STREAM-FISHING FOR MEDIUM-SIZE FISH.



SOME FISHERMEN LIKE TO HIDE A SMALL HOOK IN THE MIDDLE OF A WORM. THIS GETS "SHORT-STRIKERS"--USE FOR STREAM-OR STILL-FISHING.

We learned something from the big boys.
We're not above borrowing a good idea when we see one.
The idea of a station wagon with the virtues of a bus was too good to resist.
Which is why the Volkswagen Station Wagon has so much in common with other buses.
The driver is way up front, so he can see where he's going.
The engine is in back, out of the way.
There are windows all around (21) including the skylight kind on top.
The seats are chair-high. And you can even have an aisle to step to the rear.
The Volkswagen Station Wagon has a bit less headroom than a real bus, but it has more doors (5 in all) and a sunroof that slides back for lots of air and lots of view.
There's so much room inside the VW, you'll think you're driving the real thing.
But not when you park; the VW Wagon is only 9 inches longer than the VW Sedan.
Lately, we've spotted a few other bus-type station wagons on the scene.
So maybe things have worked out evenly after all.
The big boys learned something from us.

Highland to Air Teener Problems

Residents of Highland tonight will attend a meeting of Lloyd Town Board to give their opinions on what was reported as a current problem among "irresponsible" teenagers and late hour drunks in Highland.

Supervisor John J. Gaffney urges residents to attend the session and offer their suggestions and views in an effort to arrive at a solution to end the disturbances that have aroused residents and merchants in the Highland area.

Supervisor Gaffney said recently that a curfew had been proposed such as the regulation now in force in the village of Saugerties. He noted, however, that since Highland is an unincorporated village it has no legal right to impose a curfew for the entire township.

Residents of Highland have demanded that something be done about teenagers roaming the streets late at night and causing disturbances. The complaints also centered on drunks coming into Highland from neighboring Dutchess County to take advantage of a later closing hour at the village bars.

Highland comprises about half of the town's 6,000 population.

Hypnotist Gives Up On Hiccup Victim

ATLANTA (AP) — A hypnotist says he has given up on curing Lucy McDonald, who has been hiccuping for 65 days.

He told Mrs. McDonald, 38, that her will was too strong and he could not hypnotize her "at the present."

"But I can't wait," said the redhaired soda fountain waitress, who has to work 10 hours a day to support three school-age children.

Desperate for relief, Mrs. McDonald already had tried surgery, shock therapy, more than 200 home remedies, chiropractic treatment and prayer.

Mental Health Bill Heads for Compromise Now

WASHINGTON (AP)— A broad new federal effort to ease mental health problems—aimed at ending what one congressman called the warehouse treatment of the mentally ill—headed today toward a House-Senate compromise.

The House stamped its approval Tuesday on a mental health bill with a $238-million price tag—far below that approved by the Senate May 27.

President Kennedy originally proposed the legislation, and the $850-million Senate version was in line with administration recommendations.

The bill calls for federal aid to spur construction of facilities for research on problems of mental retardation, and for community mental health centers to care for the mentally ill in their home towns.

The biggest single cut from the Senate version lopped off $427 million earmarked to provide staffs for community mental health centers.

Indications were that a renewed effort to get the staff funds included in the bill would come when a House-Senate conference committee considers the measure.

Illustrative of the hundreds of lawsuits by local justices of the peace in the mountain townships during the decades immediately preceding the Civil War is the lengthy one heard in Judge John B. Davis' court, beginning Aug. 27, 1853, and ending the following Sept. 12. Proceedings are recorded in the J. P.'s excellent handwriting. The suit was brought by Thomas Hill against Benjamin Traphaghen, both of Shokan. Many readers of this column doubtless will recognize one or more of the names of those connected with the trial as being among their antecedents.

Briefly, plaintiff sued defendant for $100 damages for "goods, wares and merchandise." Defendant denies each and every allegation and further declares the former indebted to him in sum of $100 for services performed and done by him. Also declares plaintiff defaulted on a contract to build a barn for him, for which he asks $50 damages. He further states that while erecting said barn he boarded himself through said board would be found, and he seeks $100 damages for that. All of which testimony and much more takes up six pages of the judges court book, neatly recorded in longhand. Verdict was withheld pending further adjournment. Some of the names mentioned in this big suit were Constable Albert Eckert, fees .38; Justice Davis, $1.78. Jurors were Abraham and Samuel Merrihew, Charles Budington, Isaac C. and Solomon Bush, Charles Brown, John M. Boice, John R. Lane, Daniel Soper, Jacob Delamater, Dennis Mahar and Samuel Lane.

Movie Starlets Make Columnist Wish He Wasn't

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It was one of those dreary days on the Hollywood beat that made you wish you had stuck with your original major in college instead of journalism.

I had always wanted to study the culture of the Norridgewock as related to the Abnaki confederacy.

There for Orgy Scene

First stop was 20th Century-Fox where Bob Mitchum was in the midst of an orgy scene for "What a Way to Go."

There was old Mitch lying atop a bar while 20 scantily-clad starlets kissed his sunburned chest and face. Some poured champagne (real) down his throat.

Director J. Lee Thompson kept shooting the scene over and over again.

I remarked to Mitchum: "Don't you hate these perfectionists like Thompson who want to shoot and re-shoot?"

"Yeh," answered Bob, "I especially hate it when we're doing this havy dramatic stuff. Takes a lot out of an actor."

One of the starlets walked up. 'I recognized her as Barbara Bouchet, Miss Munich a year or so back.

"Honey," I said, "let's have lunch after the orgy."

She had another date so I went over to Paramount.

Date With Stripper

There Tina Louise was doing bumps and grinds on a stage. She plays a stripper in "For Those Who Think Young."

She finished her number and took me in her dressing room. She was wearing what strippers usually wear.

"You know I've been away from town for a year studying method acting at the actor's studio," she enthused. I said I liked her method.

Then the lights went out in her dressing room.

I couldn't find an electrician so I chatted in the dark for a half-hour or so. Then her boy friend came in.

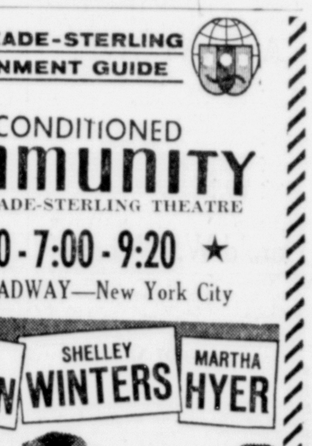
He looked a little like Frank (the Enforcer) Nitti, an Al Capone henchman. We kept chatting some more about method acting and the boy friend kept muttering something about, "How come the lights are on in the other dressing rooms?"

So I left. It's a living.

Plans Glider Trip

LONDON (AP) — A World War II fighter pilot today announced plans to fly 2,000 miles from Greenland to the Irish Republic without an engine.

Wing Commander C.J. Donovan of the Royal Air Force said he hopes to make the trip next summer in a specially constructed glider.



WEAVING HIS WAY — Bjorne Lande, the ship's radio officer, works on a tapestry while off duty aboard freighter Toulouse in Melbourne, Australia. He says every floor of his home near the small Norwegian town of Aalesund is covered with his handiwork.

Exchange Student Talks for Lions On French Stay

Carol Spiegel, a local resident and a student at Skidmore College, was the guest speaker at the weekly meeting of the Kingston Lions Club.

Miss Spiegel, recently returned from a summer spent in France under the auspices of Experiments in International Living, spent four weeks with a French family. Experiments in International Living is a nonprofit organization which hopes to foster greater international understanding and world peace by its program of placing Americans in contact at a social level with people of other nations.

Miss Spiegel noted that personal contact and more important, a frame of mind which allows the individual to look at situations through the eyes of others, are most necessary in being equipped to make value judgments.

Ten students and a group leader flew to Europe and were given a four-day orientation period in Versailles. Miss Spiegel described the people with whom she lived as being upper middle class. The family, which was selected by the Experiment Office in France on a basis of common interests, was instructed to live a normal routine. The student was therefore made to feel a part of the family and could participate in the typical family affairs.

Miss Spiegel concluded by describing the evaluation meeting held at the close of the summer at which all the students agreed that they had individual experiences because they had lived with different families. The myth of the stereotyped French was destroyed. Most had felt an emotional fulfillment and were happy that they had visited France in this manner instead of as the usual tourist experience by so many Americans.

Return $675 Verdict In Contract Action

After deliberating 15 minutes Tuesday, a jury in County Court returned a verdict of $675 in favor of plaintiff Leroy Ghear of High Falls against Frank E. Sherwood and Gladys Beuchler, High Falls, in an action to recover for work, labor and services. Also involved originally was a note given to the Bank of Orange County Rosendale Branch. Testimony indicated the note had been paid and the action went to the jury on contract for wages theory.

Leroy Ghear sued to recoved $675 in wages alleging that defendants Sherwood and Beuchler were involved in the hiring as partners. Defendant Beuchler denied she had any part in the hiring of Ghear.

William Curran appeared for plaintiff and Howard C. St. John for defendants. A motion to set aside the verdict was denied by Judge Mino and a 30-day stay of execution was granted.

Jurors were excused until 2 p. m. today. Judge Mino held a regular special term of County Court this morning.

SENATOR KEATING

Keating Will Be 2nd Anniversary Speaker Oct. 17

U. S. Senator Kenneth B. Keating will be the guest of honor at the second anniversary banquet of Radio Station WGHQ, Kingston, October 17 at the Hotel Granit in Accord. The banquet commemorates the second year the radio station has been in its present Kingston studios.

Senator Keating is a resident of Rochester and prior to his election in 1958 he represented that upstate district in the U. S. Congress. A Republican, he is an advocate of meaningful civil rights legislation and earned nation-wide attention for his reports on the Cuban arms build up last year.

The radio station general manager, Harry Thayer, in making the announcement today, said several other dignitaries are expected to attend the banquet.

A Herald-Tribune station, WGHQ, got its start in Saugerties prior to relocating in Kingston two years ago.

ly political effort to undermine the record of this administration."

Levitt charged Tuesday in his reply that Rockefeller was circumventing, "to the detriment of the taxpayers," a requirement of the state constitution that approval of voters was necessary to put the state's credit behind any borrowing.

He apparently was referring to the State University Construction Fund and the Mental Hygiene Construction Fund. These agencies were created by the Legislature at Rockefeller's request and given authority to borrow money to finance large-scale construction.

McKeon, speaking at a meeting of the Niagara County Democratic Committee, said his party had warned "that the worse was still to come."

"But," he added, "the governor, more concerned with his national political image than the welfare of the State of New York, remained aloof, preferring to occupy himself with critiques of the Kennedy administration."

"Apparently," said McKeon, "in a panic over his waning political fortunes, Gov. Rockefeller yesterday flatly and blatantly...repudiated the promise upon which he may well have been elected."

In Haifa, witnesses said the demonstrators broke into the American-European Beth El Messianic mission children's hostel and school shouting "tyrants" and "hangmen." Both Jews and non-Jews attend the school.

About 35 frightened children hid under beds and in closets.

An Israeli Foreign Ministry spokesman said "the Israel government is vigorously opposed to any manifestation of intolerance."

Dr. Zerah Wharhaftig, Israel's minister of religious affairs, also condemned the demonstrations.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — A huge wave of buying put the stock market on the road toward another historic high today, even though the best gains were being shaded early this afternoon.

First-hour volume was the largest in 30 years—a mighty 1.84 million shares compared with 1.11 million Tuesday.

Motors, steels, rails, chemicals, office equipments, electronics, nonferrous metals and other sections of the list pushed ahead vigorously as the ticker tape ran four minutes late.

Wall Street was heartened by progress toward tax reduction, higher retail sales, price increases and the ability of the market to rebound sharply Tuesday after two days of decline from its peak.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 4.63 at 742.06—well above the historic closing high of 737.98 made last Thursday.

All Big Three motors made new highs. General Motors, Ford and Chrysler held gains of around a point. Steels moved ahead fractionally for the most part, U.S. Steel gaining nearly a point.

Rails continued to move forward. Gains were small but fairly general.

Radio Corp., up a point, also touched a new high.

U.S. government bonds gained selectively. Corporate bonds were mixed.

Tiano, Geertsema and Rakov Will Head Democratic Ticket

Town of Woodstock Democrats last night nominated Charles J. Tiano as their candidate for supervisor against incumbent Republican Abram Molyneaux.

Other designations at the largest Democratic caucus in many years were:

Town Councilman—Mrs. Tobie Geertsema; Justice of the Peace—Peter W. Rakov; Superintendent of Highways—Charles A. Jennings; Town Clerk—Mrs. Ellen Dickinson; Assessor, 4-year term, Harry Cohen; assessor, two year term, Mrs. F. William Sheehan.

Tiano will be making his third bid for the supervisor's post in the Nov. 5 election. Mrs. Geertsema, assistant editor of the Record-Press, served a four-year term as councilman and was the first woman ever elected to the Woodstock Town Board. Rakov is the administrative assistant to the president of Rotron Manufacturing Company in Woodstock.

Repeat Candidate

Jennings was the Democratic candidate for highway superintendent two years ago and made an excellent run against incumbent Albert Cashdollar, whose renomination will be challenged Thursday night by James Monroe Longendyke at the Republican caucus.

Mrs. Dickinson is the widow of Lester Dickinson, who was the nine-county Liberal Party representative prior to his death more than a year ago. Harry Cohen is a widely known resident of the township and Mrs. Sheehan is the wife of F. William Sheehan, who was for many years associated with the Veterans Administration.

Gavin Is Chairman

Attorney Franklin P. Gavin was chairman of the caucus and Mrs. Mary Rathgeber was secretary. Inspectors of election were William Kronenberg, Raymond Kenyon and Carol Donohue. Named to the committee on vacancies were Joseph Lester, Thomas Mannix and Raymond Kenyon.

The invocation was given by the Rev. James W. Cook, of the Overlook Methodist Church. Miss Barbara Narel, a pupil in the seventh grade Social Studies class at Onteora Central School, led the assembly in the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag. A delegation of Social Studies students attended the caucus as observers.

The Democratic candidates will make their first public appearance on Sunday, Sept. 22, at the annual picnic and rally at the White Horse Inn.

Peter Grad, who with Gavin will be co-chairmen for the Democratic campaign, addressed the caucus briefly on the plans for the 1963 campaign.

Republicans Will Hear Hugh Elwyn

Ulster County Family Court Judge candidate, Hugh R. Elwyn, will deliver the main address at the Woodtock Republican Club Rally Saturday, Sept. 14.

The rally will be held at Wodstock Estates on New York State route 212 in the hamlet of Woodstock between the hours of 12 noon and 5 p. m. and a charcoal bar-b-q plate and refreshments will be served.

Ulster County Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson will introduce Judge Elwyn, Republican candidate for county clerk, Lawrence Craft, and candidate for coroner, William S. Keyser and briefly address the rally.

Candidates seeking election to town office in the coming November elections also will be introduced at the rally.

Rally chairman Robert Nelson reports that the many lovely gifts donated to the club will be awarded during the rally.

Norway Relates Shipping Woes

OSLO, Norway (AP)—Norway's new government told Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson today about their worries over discrimination against the Norwegian merchant fleet.

Prime Minister John Lyng, Foreign Minister Erling Wikborg and Minister of Industries Kaare Maeland complained about the spreading tendencies of nations to give preference to their own shipping, a source said.

The Norwegians contend the U.S. policy of American ships for certain American cargoes has led other countries to adopt the same policy.

The talks also included a discussion of the limited nuclear test ban agreement, the NATO alliance and the East-West situation, the source said.

Thinks Suffolk Bowed to Pressure On Bet Proposal

LONG BEACH, N.Y. (AP)—State Assembly Speaker Joseph F. Carlino says the Republican-controlled Suffolk County Board of Supervisors was "trying to get off the hook politically" in calling for a statewide referendum on proposed legalization of off-track betting on horse races.

Carlino, Nassau County Republican leader, indicated in a statement Tuesday night that he thought the board bowed to political pressure in adopting a resolution Monday asking the GOP-controlled Legislature to authorize a referendum.

Carlino is against the betting proposal.

The board, composed of seven Republicans and three Democrats, was unanimous in asking for the referendum.

"When you build a fire in these newfangled huts, stupid, you cut a hole in the top first!"

Rochester Caucus Of GOP Decides Assessor Contest

There was only one contest Saturday evening at the Town of Rochester Republican caucus held at Accord Grange Hall when Franklin S. Kelder, owner ond operator of Jaway Farms, was nominated by Supervisor A. Richard Terwilliger as the choice on the Republican ticket for supervisor.

The contest was for the office of assessor for four year term. The contestants were Raymond L. Wheeler, Robert Lewis and Romeo Muller. Wheeler received the majority and highest number of votes and was declared the candidate for the four year term.

Edmund E. Schoonmaker, secretary of the town committee opened the meeting and after the invocation by Percy W. Gazlay and the salute to the flag, Donald L. Schoonmaker was elected permanent chairman.

Terwilliger, presently completing six years as supervisor, had previously announced he would not seek renomination because of business reasons.

Regret was expressed that Supervisor Terwilliger would not seek renomination since during his term in office he had become "a truly outstanding leader in town and county government."

It was stated that when first elected his goal was "to see the town develop a sound economy, improve itself and have a fair government truly representing the interests of the people, this he has accomplished." His term of office was reviewed by both Donald L. Schoonmaker and Franklin S. Kelder.

Kelder nominated by Supervisor Terwilliger is active in civic affairs and a leader in 4-H work for many years. He was endorsed as a man "qualified" and who will devote the time required of the office as his son is associated with him in farming. His selection as candidate for supervisor was unanimous.

During the past few years many towns have combined the office of collector of taxes and town clerk. During the past year the Town of Rochester has combined these two offices. Eileen R. Baker, presently serving as town clerk, was unanimously selected as the Republican candidate for this combined office. LeRoy C. Kelder, currently holding the office of collector has served many years and did not seek reelection.

Richard T. Gray, who has served for six years as superintendent of highways was unanimously chosen to succeed himself.

Arthur Weinstein, a successful business man and well known as the operator of the Majestic Bungalows Colony, was chosen as candidate for assessor for two years.

Edmund E. Schoonmaker was unanimously chosen for the office of justice of the peace for a four year term. Schoonmaker is retired and can devote full time to the office, it was pointed out.

John S. Cross, local business man, was nominated for the office of councilman for four year term New in political circles, he is highly respected in church and civic affairs and is with the Cross Lumber Company.

Reports Plane Downed

VIETNIANE, Laos (AP)—The premier's office announced today an Air America C46 transport plane crashed near Tchepone in southern Laos last week after it was hit by pro-Communist Pathet Lao ground fire while on a supply dropping mission to refugees.

The communique said except for one unidentified body found by a rescue party, no information was available on other members of the crew, which consisted of three Americans and four Asians.

Air America is a private concern chartered by the Vietnamese government. Two of its planes previously have been shot down on supply missions, one earlier this year and one in 1962.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING...

ROGER E. SPEAR

Gas Business Is Good But Change Is Best

Q) "I am a widow in my eighties and would like your advice. I own Eastern Utilities, East Tennessee Natural Gas, International Textbook, Southeastern Public Service, Western Power & Gas, Southern western States Telephone. I have $15,000 in savings. Should I make any changes? J.F.

A) I should like, if I may, to congratulate you on your good judgment and your firm grasp of your affairs while in your eighties.

My only criticism of your list is that you are perhaps too heavily invested in the natural gas business. I don't see why this industry won't continue to grow but I believe firmly in diversification as a practical matter of investment protection.

Your East Tennessee Natural Gas has merged with Tennessee Gas Transmission. I think you should dispose of East Tennessee either by tender to the parent company or by sale.

I would put the proceeds into Maytag, an efficient appliance maker, yielding 4.3 per cent.

Q) "I would appreciate very much your opinion concerning Pendleton Tool. I am considering buying stock." R.F.

A) I like Pendleton Tool, but I would avoid buying it at this time. Earnings for the first half of 1963 were down sharply, indicating an interruption of a virtual 10-year stretch of rising net.

The decline was not primarily due to sales, which were off only slightly. I understand that profits dropped because of rising labor and research costs, the installation of a data-processing system and delayed Government sales.

I would avoid the stock at this time, particularly because its relative action, which means its movement in relation to the market, has not been good. If the stock picks up in price—although this sounds like an anomaly — I would assume that things were working out for the company and I would again recommend the shares of this essentially sound and well-managed company.

Student's Body Found

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The body of missing Hickman Price III, 20, Stanford University student and son of a couple prominent in the Democratic party, was found floating near the south tower of the Golden Gate bridge Tuesday.

Still unanswered was whether the death was suicide or an accident. An inquest will not be held until the week after next, said Coroner Henry W. Turkel, because of a crowded schedule.

The youth's parents, Hickman Price Jr., former assistant secretary of commerce, and Margaret Price, Democratic National Committee vice chairman, flew to San Francisco last week when they received word their son's sports car had been abandoned in the bridge parking lot Sept. 3.

Problems Remain

ington State community about 10 miles from Seattle.

But another inductee, Daniel Robinson of Grapeview, Wash., wasn't as lucky. He's single. "I'm madder than heck about this," he said. "I'm practically engaged to a girl. If I'd known about this (presidential order) why we'd have sped things up a little."

Among those with problems was Ronald Desnoyers, 23, of Cohoes, N.Y. He said he and his wife, Carol, had given up their apartment when he was drafted.

Moans Apartment Loss

"Now we'll have to find another apartment," said Desnoyers. He was only minutes away from being sworn in at Albany, N.Y., when informed he didn't have to take the oath.

Jerry E. Doughman, 22, of Council Bluffs, Iowa, also had problems. He had given up his home, stored his furniture and quit his railroad job.

Charles Ray Morgan, 23, of Moss Point, Miss., was pulled from an induction line at Jackson, Miss., just 45 minutes after the presidential order went into effect.

A sergeant stepped up to him just as Morgan was about to be sworn in and said, "You don't go. You're married."

If he had raised his hand and taken the oath, he would have been Pvt. Morgan.

"Whew!" sighed Morgan, "That's saved by the bell, isn't it?"

Quadruplets Die

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Mrs. Thomas F. Daugherty gave birth to quadruplets Tuesday, but the infants—born four months prematurely—died a few hours later.

The infants ranged in weight from 12½ ounces to 16½ ounces when they were delivered at Barberton Citizens Hospital.

The Daughertys, who live in the Portage Lakes area south of Akron, have two other children, a girl 7 and a boy 5.

Ellenville Driver Held in $250 as Drunk Operator

A 58-year-old Ellenville motorist was arrested early today on a charge of driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated, after the 1962 car he was operating hit a utility pole and snapped a second pole at the intersection of Church and Center Streets, Ellenville.

Police Chief Abe Rand said John Duane, of 23 Canal Street, was arraigned before Acting Judge Charles Piluso this morning. He was released in $250 bail pending a hearing September 23 at 6:30 p. m.

Chief Rand reported a complaint was received at police headquarters at 2:10 a. m. reporting an accident at the intersection. Officers Richard Berryann and Charles Stedner investigated and found Duane. His car had hit a utility pole on the left side of Church Street, and then backed across the intersection, jumped the curb and snapped off another pole, police said.

As the second pole fell, a traffic light which was suspended from the poles, was out of commission for hours until a replacement was made.

Rail Fireman . . .

Hudson, gave this account of the accident:

"They threw us off the main track into a side. We blasted a yard engine."

The train was slowing for a scheduled 6:12 (EST) stop here when the crash occurred.

Frank Letzelter, 61, of Hudson, who was in the work train's caboose, underwent surgery for throat injuries.

Also admitted to Columbia County Hospital were Mrs. Amelia Manti, 62, of Hudson (possible kidney injury); Lewis C. Dewey, 43, of Poughkeepsie, a trainman on the switcher (cut forehead); James V. Clifford Sr., 53, engineer of the switcher (head injury and leg cuts); and Sidney Olshein, 54, of Castleton, a trainman on the switch locomotive (leg bruises).

Treated and transferred to the Albany Medical Center was Jack A. Sherman, 36, of Albany, who complained of back injuries.

Santino F. DePrima, 50, of Albany, brakeman on the passenger train, described the crash this way:

"I was just opening the door to go up to the first coach. When it hit, I flew 40 feet through the air and landed on another guy. I guess I really clobbered him... Most of the passengers were calm."

munity, and the betterment of our people.

Will Miss Him

"Knowing for some months that you were not seeking reelection as Fourth Ward alderman, should have made accepting your resignation easier, but frankly, it is very difficult for me to see you leave the council.

"Yet I can understand how your increased business responsibilities, your commitment to your wife and children, and your recent recovery from illness, would require your decision to resign.

"I wish you the best of fortune, and express my sincere gratitude for the time and effort you have contributed to public service."

Becomes Human Piston

NANCY, France (AP) — A 3-year-old boy became a human piston Tuesday in a fall down a 50-foot pipe. He broke an ankle but the compressed air saved him from more serious injury.

Police said Jean Knochel stepped into an opening of a pipe 11 inches in diameter that houses an elevator counterweight. It took firemen two hours to free him.

Two Killed in Crash

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP)—A speeding automobile crashed into a tree early today, killing two Elmsford youths.

Awarded $200 Damages Caused by Sandwich

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Thomas Scanlon, torpedoed by a submarine in June 1962, has been awarded $200 damages.

Scanlon, of New Britain, Conn., broke a tooth on a sandwich known variously along the Eastern seaboard as a submarine, grinder and hero.

Circuit Judge Bernard Kosicki ruled for Scanlon Tuesday in a suit against Food Crafts, Inc. of West Hartford.

Kosicki described the type of sandwich in question as "a gustatory extravaganza of regal dimensions and savor. It consists of an elongated roll either hard-crusted or soft, slit longitudinally and filled with an imaginative assortment of meats, condiments and vegetables."

However, the sandwich roll Scanlon tried to bite into was so hard it "was not reasonably fit for human consumption," the judge ruled.

Typhoon Strikes Formosa, Leaves Philippine Toll

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Typhoon Gloria, leaving at least 15 persons dead in the Philippines, raged across Formosa today and struck Taipei with winds of 100 miles an hour that devastated thousands of homes.

Floods swept through residential areas. Winds uprooted trees throughout this city of one million inhabitants.

First police reports said at least two persons were killed and three injured by the typhoon as it swept over Formosa toward mainland China.

The Philippine government rushed aid to more than 100,000 families struck by the backlash of the storm.

Hardest hit was northern Luzon where most victims were homeless, stranded or short of food as floods raged through the area. The Philippine news service said 13 persons were buried by landslides in Baguoi City north of Manila and two drowned in flooded rivers.

Liberals Select Bergan for Bench

NEW YORK (AP)—The State Committee of the Liberal Party has nominated Justice Francis Bergan of the Appellate Division as the party's candidate for associate judge of the Court of Appeals.

Justice Bergan, a Democrat, received the nomination of the Democratic and Republican parties Monday.

His support by the three parties and a decision by the Conservative Party not to run a candidate for the office means that there will be no contest for a statewide office in the November election.

The Liberal Party praised Justice Bergan for his record during 26 years on the State Supreme Court. He was cited as "the outstanding jurist in the state who is not now sitting on the Court of Appeals."
